Tsunami of rage

By Phil Willams and Jodie Powell

AN Alie Springs Town Councillor has vowed not to attend protests and vigils at Council-run events for the remainder of their term in the wake of community backlash about their involvement at a pro-Palestine vigil during the council-run Halloween pop-up party last month.

In a statement issued to the Centralian Today on November 6, Cr Aia Newport said they could “see how joining the vigil, even if briefly, may have been perceived as protesting a Council event”.

Despite Cr Newport’s promise to refrain from joining future protests at council-run events, almost 100 people have blasted their actions on social media.

“Do they no realise much this facility is worth to Alice Springs,” Karen Jones said.

While many of the posts were anonymous, Steve Brown called for Cr Newport to resign.

“Given this Councillor has a declared position opposing Pine Gap and its staff who contribute an enormous amount to this community including Rates!

“The said councillor must now declare a ‘conflict of interest’ on any decision making that affects Pine Gap and its Staff.

“This will include discussions on Rates! I believe that would make the said councillor’s position untenable.

“And that person should be asked to resign as a result,” he said.

But Glenn Dooley rose to Cr Newport’s defence.

“Good on her for protesting. It’s in her DNA. The backlash is ludicrous.

No one hurt. Free speech exercised. Ideas exchanged. Signs of a healthy community,” Mr Dooley said.

Ntaria’s bush sk8ers

By Gladys Barreta

SKATEBOARDING is carving out a new space for creativity, connection, and confidence among young people in Central Australia.

A team of passionate skateboarders and youth workers from Build Up Skateboards have been travelling across the Northern Territory, hosting workshops that teach children practical skills, from balance and coordination to teamwork and persistence while offering a fun, inclusive outlet in communities that often lack recreational facilities.

Build Up includes four experienced skateboarders who are taking their mission to the bush, giving kids opportunities they might not otherwise have.

During a recent visit to Ntaria School in Hermannsburg, about 125km west of Alice Springs, students learned to assemble their own skateboards and even helped install temporary ramps for schoolyard sessions.

Workshop facilitator Eugene Stewart said the focus wasn’t competition, but putting more focus on building confidence.

“It’s not about being the best skater, it’s about having fun, trying something new, and realising anyone can do it,” he said.

“Once the kids have basic skills, if they ever visit a town with a skate park, they’ve got a way to connect with others and feel part of that space.”

Mr Stewart said the response from young people had been overwhelmingly positive.

“They love it, it’s something different, it gets them outside, active, and learning from each other.

“Once a few kids get into it, the others follow, and that’s where the social learning really starts.”

across the NT and into remote communities in Western Australia, with plans to expand even further.

The group receives no government funding, instead partnering directly with schools and councils to bring their sessions to communities.

With a new skate park underway in Alice Springs, Mr Stewart said he hoped the project would inspire more opportunities for young people to get involved.

“Skateboarding brings people together and it breaks down barriers. We just want kids in the bush to have that same chance,” he said.

Ntaria School Principal Ebony Arthur said the program had been a major success for student engagement and leadership.

“The kids’ engagement has been super high, and their skill development has been really quick,” she said.

“It’s provided opportunities for leadership among our secondary and upper-primary students, and it’s safe risk-taking and that’s why they’re so engaged.”

Ms Arthur said the school planned to keep the facilities to ensure ongoing access and would welcome Build Up next year for two more workshops.

“We want to continue the longevity of the learning,” she said.

“It’s the first program that’s truly delivered on everything it promised it would from empowerment, leadership, teamwork, and fun.

“I saw how proud the kids were of their new skills and the recognition they received from the workshop.”

Police chase forces school lockdown

By Phil Williams

TEACHERS at an Alice Springs primary school were forced to invoke lockdown protocols as the school day was beginning on Wednesday, November 5.

No staff or students at Ross Park Primary School in East Side were in danger at any time, the school said.

“At approximately 8.40am this morning, a young person ran through our school grounds while being chased by police.

“Most classes were already indoors and did not witness the incident,” the school said in a statement sent to families.

“As a precaution, we immediately initiated a short lockdown procedure, which lasted for about 15 minutes.

“Police soon confirmed (to the school) that the individual had moved away from the school area, and the lockdown was lifted.

PRECAUTION: Ross Park Primary School was placed into a short precautionary lockdown while policed chased a youth through the school grounds. (Phil Williams: 515824)

“At no stage were any students or staff in danger, the school said adding the lockdown was simply a precaution.

“Our response was purely precautionary to ensure everyone’s safety and to prevent any confusion or misinformation.”

Following enquiries to the NT Department of Education, late on Wednesday, a spokesperson confirmed the incident but offered no other information except to say the details of the statement seen by the Centralian Today were accurate.

NT police provided information about the incident, saying it stemmed from proactive police work and that patrols had sighted an alleged youth offender breaching bail conditions in East Side.

“The youth fled and a foot pursuit commenced, which included the youth running through a nearby primary school’s grounds.

“Police subsequently lost sight of the offender, who remains outstanding with investigations continuing.”

SIX Central Australian businesses have been recognised for their outstanding contributions in this year's Brolga Northern Territory Tourism Awards.

Earth Sanctuary, Tennant Creek's Safari Lodge Motel, the Athelle Outback Hideaway, Ayers Rock Resort, Uluru Segway Tours and Tourism Central Australia all came away with awards recognising their contribution to the Territory's visitor economy.

This year's awards attracted 65 entries, including 12 first time entrants.

The 22 NT business category winners will now represent the Territory at the 2025 Qantas Australian Tourism Awards in Western Australia.

Minister for Tourism and Hospitality Marie-Claire Boothby congratulated all winners and finalists.

"The Brolga Awards recognise the outstanding dedication, innovation, and excellence of our tourism operators and businesses driving the Territory's visitor economy and showcasing our world-class experiences," Ms Boothby said.

"Our people are what make every stop along the way worth a visit. That Territory spirit sets us apart from the rest of Australia."

The Chair's Choice Award went to Earth Sanctuary, while the Ayers Rock Resort was honoured for Cultural Tourism.

Voyages Indigenous Tourism Australia (operators of Ayers Rock Resort) CEO Matt Cameron-Smith said the most recent award added to several others, including recognition in two categories at the World Travel Awards, winning the Oceania's Best Fine Dining Hotel Restaurant for Tali Wiru at the World Culinary Awards, and two Australian Traveller Readers' Choice Awards.

"These honours are a testament to the dedication of our team, the strength of our partnerships, and most importantly, the cultural leadership and expertise of A?angu," Mr Cameron-Smith said.

"Every award we receive is grounded in the stories, spirit, and generosity of A?angu, whose connection to Country makes Ayers Rock Resort unlike anywhere else in the world."

Tourism Central Australia won the Tourism Marketing and Campaigns category for its engaging Stories from the Heart promotion

Uluru Segway Tours won in both Tour and Transport Operators and Adventure Tourism, while Athelle Outback Hideaway won the Hosted Accommodation category and Safari Lodge Motel secured the 3-3.5 Star Accommodation category for the second time.

The awards capped off the inaugural 'Destination NT', a week of industry collaboration which included the launch of the Northern Territory Visitor Economy Strategy 2032.

"More than 1000 registered participants across the industry took part in Destination NT, which is a huge show of confidence in the Territory's tourism sector," Ms Boothby said.

Administrator to make farewell visit to Alice Springs

By Phil William

AHEAD of the conclusion of his term as NT Administrator on January 30 next year, His Honour Professor the Honourable Hugh Heggie AO PSM will make a final official visit to Alice Springs next week.

His visit will be part of a series to regional centres across the NT, dubbed as a 'Farewell Tour'.

His Honour will travel to Alice Springs for a final residency from 18 to 21 November, undertaking a range of community and patronage visits. The residency will conclude with a community reception to thank and celebrate the contributions of the Barkly and Central Australian communities.

Professor Heggie's farewell tour will begin in Katherine from 12 to 14 November, where His Honour will visit RAAF Base Tindal in his capacity as Honorary Air Commodore of No. 17 Squadron.

His Honour is the first NT Administrator to be appointed to this role and will be honoured with a farewell parade. He also holds the distinction of being the first to serve as Honorary Air Commodore of both No. 17 (RAAF Base Tindal) Squadron and No. 13 (City of Darwin) Squadron.

During his time in Katherine, His Honour will also tour Katherine Hospital and host a farewell function to personally thank the community for their support and engagement throughout his tenure. At the event, His Honour will present two Seniors of Excellence Awards.

After his Alice Springs residency, His Honour will then travel to Sydney for a final meeting with Her Excellency the Honourable Ms Sam Mostyn AC, Governor-General of the Commonwealth of Australia, before returning to Darwin to complete his term as Administrator.

These farewell visits mark a significant moment of reflection and gratitude, as His Honour acknowledges the people and places that have shaped his time in office.

"It has been the greatest honour of my life to serve the people of the Northern Territory as their Administrator.

"These visits are an opportunity for me to say thank you, to Territorians, for their warmth, resilience, and unwavering spirit before I leave office, he said

"I committed to fulfil this role with compassion and love for Territorians, and for this vast and beautiful Territory that we all call home. I commit to conclude my term with this same spirit." His Honour said.

Be McHappy for charity

By Phil Williams

WITH just two days until the McHappiest Day of the year, new Alice Springs McDonald's licencees Charissa and Aaron Sharp are more than excited about this Saturday.

After arriving five weeks ago, not only will it be their first McHappy Day in Alice Springs, it will be their first as Maccas store owners.

"We're super excited to be part of the community here", Ms Sharp said

"I think the community is really special, you can tell," Mr Sharp added.

"We're really looking forward to McHappy Day. It will be a fun day," he said.

Two dollars from every Big Mac sold goes directly to Ronald McDonald House Charities (RMHC) with all the money raised going to continue to support families in need through Ronald McDonald Houses, Family Rooms, Family Retreats, Hospitality Carts and the Learning Program.

McHappy Day was launched in 1991 and has raised more than $79 million for RMHC, with local communities across the country proudly showing their support for those in need., helping to support more than 69,000 families every year

In 2024, McHappy Day raised more than $6 million for RMHC Australia with the funds helping provide over 37,000 nights of accommodation and support for families with seriously ill or injured children undergoing hospital treatment.

In the past year, several Alice Springs and Central Australian families have benefitted from the work of RMHC, and plans are being put in place to establish a Ronald McDonald House locally so families don't have to travel.

As well as donating, Maccas have limited edition merchandise such as socks and bucket hats available to help raise funds and to celebrate the day.

In the lead up to this weekend Ms Sharp said there would also be a host of fun activities and games with some surprise visitors throughout the day.

"The scouts will also be here collecting donations and we've got the fires coming down for a visit with their truck, which should be a bit of fun.

"We've also got a few other things happening so it's going to be such a good day," she said.

Remote communities to benefit from cheaper groceries

By Phil Williams

ALMOST 20 remote community stores across the Red Centre and the Barkly will benefit from a newly implemented national code of practice.

The Remote Stores Program has now taken effect, with new standards set by NT Health for remote stores across the Northern Territory.

Remote community stores in the NT represent more than 50 per cent of all remote community stores in Australia.

NT Health has implemented food security standards for remote Declared Community Stores through its powers under Part 7A of the Food Act 2004.

Participating stores are required to sign up to the new National Code of Practice for Remote Store Operations.

The new standards require remote stores in the Territory to stock a minimum range of goods, promote good nutrition and healthy food and for the stores to be managed responsibly.

Under the scheme, the cost of 30 essential items has been reduced to make them comparable to prices in urban areas.

The savings from the program for remote consumers is expected to be up to 50 per

BASICS: The cost of 30 essential items such as canned vegetables has been reduced to make them comparable to prices in urban areas. (Phil Williams: 515584) cent.

Food that has been made cheaper include canned vegetables and fruit, pasta and rice, along with items including nappies, soap and toilet paper.

Once approved for the scheme, the stores can begin ordering stock from the list of essential items to meet the needs of their community.

NT Health Chief Health Officer Dr Paul Burgess said the program supported remote stores to have a positive impact on people's nutritional intake while contributing to reduce the burden of disease, such as diabetes

"Remote Food Security is crucial for the prevention of chronic disease, malnutrition and improving overall health and wellbeing," he said.

"The Territory is the only jurisdiction with Remote Food Security legislation, so this is a really significant step forward for our communities."

The standards, which also align with the voluntary National Code of Practice for Remote Store Operations, were developed through comprehensive consultation with a range of stakeholders.

The program is administered by the National Indigenous Australians Agency, and being delivered by Outback Stores, a not-for-profit Commonwealth company.

"The NT Government is now leading the way in creating healthier food environments," Julie Brimblecombe, Professor Public Health Nutrition, NHMRC Investigator Research Fellow, Monash University said.

Almost 40 stores across the NT, with half located in Central Australia, including Ali Curung, Haasts Bluff, Hermannsburg, Kintore, Papunya, Santa Teresa, Titjikala and Yuen-dumu, have been included in the program.

Ali Curung man facing more than 10 charges

By Phil Williams

A man from a remote community is facing multiple charges after numerous breaches of an AVO, damaging property and burglary.

Northern Territory Police arrested the 43-year-old man in relation to a series of domestic violence offences committed in Ali Curung over a period of almost three weeks.

Police allege that between October 13 and November 2, he was involved in nine separate domestic violence incidents with a female believed to be known to him within the community of Ali Curung.

During this time, the man allegedly breached the conditions of an existing DVO on multiple occasions and committed additional offences against the victim.

The incidents were reported to police, however, the man evaded arrest.

In the early hours of Sunday, November 2, he allegedly unlawfully entered the victim's residence and assaulted her, resulting in injuries that required medical treatment at the community clinic.

Police later received reports the man, through messages sent to a family member, had allegedly threatened the victim.

As a result of the messages being received, police engaged with the victim to ensure her safety.

A coordinated operation on Wednesday, November 5 involving Ali Curung Police, Tennant Creek Regional Crime Detectives, and the Fugitive Task Force was conducted across the communities of Ali Curung and Murray Downs.

At approximately 6.45pm, the alleged offender was located at an address in Murray Downs where he was arrested and taken to the Tennant Creek Watch House.

He has since been charged with a raft of offences, including eight breaches of a DVO.

He was also charged with two counts of aggravated assault, one each of damage to property, unlawful stalking and aggravated burglary.

He remains in police custody and will appear in court at a later date.

Tennant Creek Superintendent Peter Dash praised the combined efforts made to apprehend the man.

"Domestic violence is a scourge on our community, and police treat these offences very seriously.

"Our members from Ali Curung and Tennant Creek, alongside the Fugitive Task Force, worked relentlessly and tirelessly to ensure this offender had his day in court."

If you or someone you know are experiencing difficulties due to domestic violence, support services are available, including, but not limited to, 1800RESPECT (1800 737 732) or Lifeline 131 114.

Newport clarifies role

By Phil Williams and Jodie Powell

AN Alice Springs Town Councillor has vowed not to attend protests and vigils at Council-run events for the remainder of their term in the wake of community backlash about their involvement at a pro-Palestine vigil during the council-run Halloween pop-up party last month.

In a statement issued to the Centralian Today on November 6, Cr Aia Newport said they could “see how joining the vigil, even if briefly, may have been perceived as protesting a Council event”.

“I engaged with various aspects of the Halloween pop-up event,” Cr Newport said.

“I listened to Mayor Hill read a children’s book to the kids and families present, talked to stall holders and held a blue tongue lizard, which was the highlight of my night.

“I loved participating in the activities of the evening, and I am continuously impressed by the events our Council team pulls off.”

During the Halloween Pop Up party on October 30, pro-Palestine activists staged a peaceful protest on the Flynn Church lawns in Todd Mall.

Around 20 activists, some with children, attended the event, with Cr Newport, a Greens Party member, joining in the peaceful action, which called for the closure of the Joint Defence Facility Pine Gap.

Members of the group waved Palestinian flags, wore keffiyehs, held placards, and raised a banner that read ‘Prosecute Pine Gap War Criminals’.

The action angered many locals, who criticised Cr Newport’s actions on social media, saying it was a fun event for children and the community and should not have been a forum for political activism.

Stacey Humm was among those who shared views on a local social media page, saying Cr Newport’s presence in the protest was inappropriate.

“There is a time and a place for everything, but a kids/family Halloween event is not the time! Just let families and kids enjoy an evening without having political issues thrown in their faces,” Ms Humm said

However Cr Newport has defended being involved, issuing a statement saying: “When I engaged with the vigil it was tucked away behind a number of food trucks in front of Adelaide House.

“In the time I was there, the vigil was peaceful, silent and respectful and I noticed the protest was made up of families, old folk and people from all walks of life.

“I held a sign for about 90 seconds before the group decided to wrap up for the evening, and I stayed to chat to a few people afterwards.

“The attendees said that the majority of feedback they received was positive.

“I was not part of organising the vigil, but wanted to show support for a cause that is very important to me personally.

“To be clear, the vigil targeted the ongoing genocide in Palestine, not Council or the Halloween event itself, and I engaged with the vigil in a personal capacity.

“I can see how joining the vigil, even if briefly, may have been perceived as protesting a Council event.

“This was not my intention.

“Protesting has been part of my political world for more than a decade, and I will continue to attend protests in my personal capacity.

“However, for the sake of simplicity and to draw clear lines between my Council life and personal life, I have decided to refrain from attending protests and vigils at Council-run events for the duration of my term.

“I hope this decision provides reassurance that I remain a committed member of this Council team.”

Tall tales, lines in the sand

IT serves no border control function to speak of, requires neither visa nor passport to cross, and you'll find no line on a map marking the extent of this political, financial and uniquely Territorian divide: What am I?

Of course I'm the Berrimah Line, and so says any Centralian worth the title.

For many in the Centre the Berrimah Line is a divide as sharp and real as Aussie cultural divides between city and bush, VB and real beer, or a blue versus maroon guernsey at State of Origin.

An exact definition of the Berrimah Line, however, proves elusive: Is the matter rooted in history, politics, gossip, or even mysticism?

The Slang Dictionary defines the Berrimah Line as a "geographical line that supposedly separates Darwin from the rest of the Northern Territory."

Wikipedia goes more conceptual with "the demarcation of inequitable resourcing towards the capital Darwin and surrounding areas over the vast remote areas of the south."

Phew! Perhaps this mouthful is what led the ABC to define it more simply as a line dividing the Territory's 'haves' from the 'have nots'.

Unsurprisingly, the line runs through a Top End spot called Berrimah, an eastern suburb of Darwin on Larrakia Country.

Berrimah's position likely governs its reputation, being slightly south and east of the principal seat of NT Government in Darwin, while posing as an unremarkable through-stop at the top of "the track" from Darwin to Alice Springs.

Berrimah emerged after World War II as an army site, later hosting airline passengers on stopover.

Today some 1200 people live there, most relatively young and fewer than 17 per cent Indigenous.

Hosting a power station, high school, wildlife research station, prison and the controversial Don Dale Youth Detention Centre, Berrimah's iconic cultural status has been artificially inflated owing to a reputation (deserved or otherwise) as a place where all funding that might otherwise flow southward from Darwin toward Central Australia, is said to stop.

The term is commonly heard. Even Pulse (16 June) suggests that north of the Berrimah Line "a more privileged [Top End] folk breathe a rarified air that flows freely only above the line".

Southward, toward a so-called 'Bottom End', Pulse suggests, Alice Springs folk "breathe a much drier desert brew and lead far simpler lives".

(1937). Photographs of the Northern Territory, 1930s-1941. Const. E.A. Sandy McNab. NT Police, Darwin. Legend has it that if anyone did not have a job in Darwin within 24 hours of arrival, he would take them out to the Berrimah line, give them a boot in the backside and send them south. PIC: National Archives of Australia

Australians are no strangers to such lines in the sand, and many relics from our colonial past still feature on maps of the nation.

School children once learned of the Goyder Line, which squiggles east-west across some maps of South Australia dividing zones suitable for cropping from those to the line's north deemed for grazing only.

Then Surveyor-General of the colony George Goyder plotted the line in 1865 as a locus of points recording 250mm of annual rainfall.

Of course, the Berrimah line is more geopolitical than the hydrological Goyder line, and no-one has ever actually surveyed it, yet alone declared or gazetted it. More the realm of conjecture, the line implies a lack of sharing of the Commonwealth funding pie that supports the Northern Territory.

And, like a greedy big brother, the Darwin-based NT government hogs more than its fair share of the pie, leaving towns and communities south of the line to fight over the crumbs.

Still, it often draws a laugh. On 3 April 2017, the NT News reported Palmerston Council had proposed a wall be built along the Berrimah Line to stem what was being described as an "undesirable cultural influence from Darwin".

High level talks had been held with the then US Trump administration about how to build such a wall, "news" presented alongside "expert testimony" quoting "Bruce from Engineering."

The story dateline, suspiciously close to April Fool's Day, belies the report's questionable veracity, and is further supported by a picture of two youths climbing a wall captioned "similar to the one Palmerston council plans to build."

On a more serious note, Alice-based CDU Emeritus Professor Rolf Gerritsen told ABC in 2018 that if the line were acting as popular opinion suggests, it would constitute a dereliction of political duty ... "shorthand for the concentration of services and government attention to the major urban centre of the Northern Territory."

In the same piece, the ABC playfully suggests the line may even be on the move, to nearby Darwin suburb Coolalinga, southeast from Palmerston and where both leaders of the major parties were reportedly living at the time.

Politicians themselves build or demolish reputations on either dismissing the line's existence or claiming they have successfully banished it from their government's play book.

Ex-CLP independent candidate for Brainting Loraine Braham portrayed herself in an advertisement during the 2001 NT election as "smashing down a wall corresponding to the 'Berrimah line' just south of Darwin".

Given then-MLA Braham had only recently divorced the CLP to run in Brainting as an independent, reigning CLP Chief Minister Denis Burke publicly threatened her with a 'mandatory sentence' for property damage, treating the matter with the humour it deserved.

In 2005, nonetheless, long after Clare Martin came to power in that same 2001 election, Martin herself declared to press in Alice Springs that her government would demolish the Line.

Again, two years later, and speaking of the line to ABC, she admitted that: "I think in many cases it's something of a historic reality for people. In reality, it doesn't exist".

But another must-tell story of Berrimah Line lore, has the ring of truth. Well, maybe.

"The Berrimah Line did not start as a political thing," says a deidentified Facebook poster.

"It was started by a very formidable policeman named Sandy McNab who lived at Berrimah.

"He drew a line there, and if anyone did not have a job in Darwin within 24 hours of arrival, he would take them out to that line and give them a boot in the backside and head them southwards."

Elsewhere the story is attributed to one-time NT Administrator and folk music legend Ted Egan, still resident at Alice Springs.

Finally, if all else fails, and you happen to be passing through Berrimah, perhaps try pondering the line's true origins over a coffee in Pruen Road, at a caf' called 'The Berrimah Line'.

Getting Good Stuff Done

Alice's own NT treasure

By Gladys Barreta

ICONIC singer-songwriter and storyteller Ted Egan AO, known for his 1960s and '70s folk songs celebrating Central Australia, has been recognised with a Seniors of Excellence Northern Territory Award for his outstanding contribution to the region and its people.

The Seniors of Excellence Awards acknowledge and celebrate Territorians aged 65 and over who have given, and continue to give, their time voluntarily to charities, community service organisations, and other community initiatives across the Northern Territory.

At the age of 93, Mr Egan has much to celebrate in his lifetime, as a former public servant who served as Administrator of the Northern Territory from 2003 to 2007.

In his early career with the Department of Aboriginal Affairs, Mr Egan has worked out bush in jobs such as stockwork and crocodile hunting while employed as a patrol officer and reserve superintendent and later became a teacher at bush schools.

He was also the member of the first National Reconciliation Council.

Mr Egan has been writing and recording songs for more than 40 years, filming and writing about the Australian people, who he said represent the real ethos of the country.

He has produced 30 albums, created 13 one-hour documentary films under the title This Land Australia, and authored 10 books.

Mr Egan received the award with great pleasure at his homestead surrounded by family.

"It is with great pleasure to receive the award from Seniors of Excellence NT and deeply grateful to Michael who has come out to present the award, and I wish you well for all your future activities," Mr Egan said.

Founder of the Seniors of Excellence NT Inc, Michael Foley OAM travelled to Alice Springs to present Mr Egan with his award.

"Ted Egan has been an important figure in so much of Central Australian history," Mr Foley said.

"He's often called a man of the people for the people and it's true. The community of the Northern Territory recognises all the incredible work Ted has put into shaping the modern history of the Territory through his writings and songs that reflect his deep love for country."

Mr Foley explained that while the awards were Territory-wide, the presentation in Alice Springs ensured Mr Egan could be honoured

"Because the Territory is so vast, it's not always easy for recipients to travel to Darwin. When we receive nominations from people south of Katherine, we make it a point to travel and acknowledge them personally," Mr Foley said.

"So much of this community work often goes unnoticed. These awards ensure that seniors who give selflessly - like Ted - are recognised by their peers and the broader community."

The award was announced during Seniors Month, with Mr Foley travelling to Alice Springs late last month, allowing Mr Egan to receive the recognition and respect the community holds for him and his enduring legacy.

The Getting Good Stuff Done #ggsd page promotes those encouraging, supporting and amplifying positive initiatives to foster a stronger community.

Yipirinya dives into safety

By Gladys Barreta

STUDENTS at Yipirinya School have been making a splash this term, taking part in the Royal Life Saving Swim and Survive Program aimed at building water safety awareness and swimming skills among young people.

Funded through the NT Government's Department of Education initiative, the program has so far given students from Years one to six eight swimming sessions, with a goal of reaching at least 12-16 lessons per child by the end of the term.

Leading the lessons is swim instructor Kurt Herzog, who said the program focused on both swimming technique and essential survival skills knowledge that's particularly important for Central Australian kids who often swim in natural waterholes and creeks.

"The kids are super keen," Mr Herzog said. "The program is broad and we learn everything from survival skills and stroke technique to fun games that keep the students engaged."

"A lot of these kids go out bush and swim in waterholes, so we try to mimic those scenarios so they're prepared. We talk about things like always swimming with an adult and not swimming during storms."

Mr Herzog said education was a key factor in reducing drowning risk.

"Aboriginal kids are three times more likely to drown than non-Aboriginal kids and that's just because of lack of water safety education," he said.

He added that Yipirinya students are thriving in the pool.

"They're doing great, they're natural athletes. Sometimes after just two or three demonstrations, they've got it," he said.

The school will wrap up the term with a swimming carnival in Week 9 (early December), where students will showcase their new skills to family and friends.

Looking ahead, Yipirinya School hopes to continue developing the program next term, with a focus on stroke correction and swimming technique.

Cup a winner for education

By Gladys Barreta

TOYING with a game of luck while investing in the education of young people in Central Australia, the Rotary Club of Alice Springs has again hosted a sold-out Melbourne Cup Sweep.

The three locals who won the top cash prizes were drawn on Melbourne Cup Day, Tuesday, November 4, at the Yeperenye Shopping Centre.

The first Rotary Club of Alice Springs Sweep was held in 1963 and convened by Reg Harris.

More than 3000 tickets were sold at 10 shillings each (the equivalent of about $17.60 today) and first prize was 900 pounds (around $31,798 today).

The price of tickets was raised in 1976 to $2 and has remained at $2 since, with the Club now selling more tickets and as well as paper tickets, tickets online through Rafflelink.

The prize money for the sweep has increased to $7000, $2000, $1000 and 21 prizes of $50 for drawing a horse.

President of the Rotary Club of Alice Springs, Virginia Loy, said the Melbourne Cup Sweep fundraiser had always been a fun way to raise money for the club's education scholarships.

SWEEP: The Rotary Club of Alice Springs with the winners of the 2026 Melbourne Cup Sweep education fundraiser.

"It's the fundraiser that helps the Rotary Club of Alice Springs give out $23,000 in scholarships each year," Ms Loy said.

"This doesn't completely fund the education scholarships, with some money also coming from managed funds but the sweep contributes directly to supporting them."

She said the idea was to create a fundraiser the community would enjoy.

"Rotary wanted a fundraiser, and the Melbourne Cup Sweep is something people are really interested in," she said.

"It gives people a bit of fun while supporting local education."

Ms Loy said the sweep had become a well-loved annual tradition.

"The tickets sell themselves and people know about this well in advance; they approach our ticket sellers each year to buy one," she said.

She also expressed her gratitude to Rotary's sponsors for helping make the fundraiser possible.

The fundraiser supports scholarships including the John Hawkins Memorial Scholarship, valued at $18,000 and awarded in $3000 annual instalments to a student commencing undergraduate study in 2026.

The Melbourne Cup Bill Van Dyke Scholarship, worth $5000, assists postgraduate students.

Applications for the Rotary Club of Alice Springs Education Scholarships closed on November 12, with interviews to be held on November 22. A decision will be made shortly after.

NT Health seeks feedback from those suffering ADHD

By Phi Williams

ADHD is estimated to affect more than one million Australians, with between 6-10 per cent of children and up to five per cent of adults suffering from the neurodevelopmental disorder.

Currently, states and territories have different rules about how the diagnosis and prescribing of medications for people living with Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder is undertaken.

The differences can make it hard for patients moving between jurisdictions and for doctors engaging in tele-psychiatry across those jurisdictions.

The states' and territories' health ministers have agreed for a national approach to reforms to allow greater GP prescribing of ADHD medications, including making diagnoses.

The outcome will be consistency, with all states and territories having similar rules, allowing GPs to diagnose and prescribe for

ADHD.

To meet the new national ADHD framework, NT Health will need to decide what changes should be made in the NT.

NT Health is seeking feedback on ADHD diagnosis and medication prescribing practices from Territorians with lived experience of ADHD.

This feedback will help NT Health develop regulatory reforms to ADHD diagnosis and medication prescribing practices that promote patient access to care while maintaining protections for the safe and appropriate prescribing of medicines.

The end goal is for the changes to make it easier for Territorians to receive a diagnosis and access ongoing care or medications.

Feedback is also sought from carers of those with ADHD, GPs, specialists and health-care organisations involved in the treatment of ADHD.

Submissions close on 30 November.

Strengthening voice

By Gladys Barreta

CONVERSATIONS around the unique challenges and opportunities facing rural and remote communities in Australia will help shape the work of a new Outback Advisory Board, established to support and empower those living in the outback.

The Foundation for Rural & Regional Renewal (FRRR) - a national organisation dedicated to strengthening the social and economic resilience of remote, rural, and regional communities - has created the advisory body to ensure that the voices of people living in outback areas are heard in policy and practice.

FRRR Director Donna Digby, who is based in Alice Springs, will chair the new Outback Advisory Board.

Ms Digby, a long-time advocate for outback Australia, said the board will bring an outback focus to future FRRR policy and grant-making.

“We’ll be brainstorming how FRRR can better support small communities and very remote regions to help them thrive, become more sustainable, and feel empowered,” Ms Digby said.

The board brings together leaders from across the country from Yarrawonga in Victoria and Ceduna in South Australia, to Canberra, Tilpa in New South Wales, and the Top End, who will all collaborate on strategies to strengthen remote communities.

“This team of leaders from all parts of Australia will have those important conversations and help shape future directions,” Ms Digby said.

“The Outback Advisory Board will provide a forum to identify the unique challenges facing outback Australia and discuss potential solutions.

“The outback covers more than 70 per cent of the Australian continent with less than four per cent of the population living there. Despite its sparse population, the region contributes nearly half of Australia’s export revenue and supports more than 40,000 small and medium-sized enterprises.”

Ms Digby said the new board would enable the FRRR to work more deeply and with greater insight into outback contexts.

“I’ve lived and worked in outback areas for nearly two decades, and I know they come with unique challenges and opportunities,” she said.

“Locals are incredibly resourceful, but there are deep, systemic issues that need different approaches compared to inner rural or urban areas.

“With fewer people and resources, these issues often aren’t heard loudly enough.

“This builds on the work of the Outback Alliance and ensures that, moving forward, we’re listening to and working directly with the people who live in outback and remote Australia.”

The board also aims to discuss national issues shared by people living in the outback, and will draw on the lived experience, perspective and networks of elected members that include; remote economic development, agriculture, health, land management, education, digital connectivity and communications.

“By listening, understanding, and leveraging the insights of our Advisory Board members, FRRR will be better equipped to engage philanthropy, corporate, and government partners in providing targeted support for very remote communities,” Ms Digby said.

Harvey Wallbanger

By Phil Williams

A man has been charged with high range drink driving after reversing into a wall last week.

Around 6pm on Monday November 2, police received reports of a man driving erratically while attempting to park his vehicle at a unit complex on South Terrace.

It is alleged he caused damage to a wall after reversing his car into it.

Police attended and the 39 year old driver returned a positive roadside breath test result of 0.228 resulting in his licence being immediately suspended.

He was arrested, and has since been charged with driving with a high range blood alcohol content and was bailed to appear in the Alice Springs Local Court on 19 November.

No injuries were reported to police following the alleged driving offence.

VILLAFLORS Cleaning started just three years ago in Alice Springs with only two cleaners focused on house cleaning.

Since then, the business has significantly expanded its scope to include remote and housing commission cleaning, and this year, they successfully expanded operations into Brisbane.

Owner Leroy Villaflor says the business prides itself on supporting local communities, and is especially proud of its workforce - 95 per cent of employees are local Indigenous staff based in both Alice Springs and Brisbane.

"We prioritise training and development, leveraging over 10 years of industry experience and maintaining the highest level of insurance for our staff, equipment, and public liability," Mr Villaflor said.

"This year has brought significant recognition for our efforts, including being named a finalist in the Northern Territory Local Business Awards for Outstanding Indigenous Services and Outstanding New Business and a finalist in the Brisbane Local Business Awards for Outstanding New Business. Our manager, Julie-anne Kruhse, was recognised as a finalist in Outstanding Customer Service for an Individual in the NT Chamber of Commerce awards.

"The company reached Stage 3 for Outstanding Growth NT in the Telstra Business Awards and Stage 2 for Indigenous excellence NT. We were a finalist in the NTIBN Darwin awards (for Blak Sole Trader or Microbusiness of the Year). While the business named Pink Apple Hair has since handed back the award, we are currently awaiting the final re-judgment and results from the NTIBN board members," Mr Villaflor said.

Villaflors Cleaning aims to continue servicing the community, providing value for money, affordability, and flexibility across a wide range of services, including council contracts, Alice Springs Airport, remote cleanups, insurance cleanups, Indigenous clinics, homes, and schools, bringing professionalism, care, and cultural pride to every job.

They are also committed to voluntary work, helping with rubbish pickup in the communities they serve.

BESPOKE: Nicole Hayes with her strawberry inspired edible work of art. (516150)

SOLD: Dominic Miller points to a lucky bidder as he calls sold at the Mayor's Cake Auction. (516150)

Mayor's first cake auction

By Phil Williams

THE Alice Springs Mayor's annual cake auction, Asta Hill's first, has raised a huge amount of money for the Bosom Buddies group and breast cancer awareness.

The fundraiser evolved several years ago when Tony Boal and colleagues of Kerry Cook, an Alice Springs Town Council employee who had been diagnosed with breast cancer, decided to donate the money raised from a sausage sizzle to the McGrath Foundation.

At the time, the charity didn't have a nurse locally to support people with breast cancer in Alice Springs.

Following further fundraising efforts, the McGrath Foundation now has a local breast cancer nurse to give that ongoing support when needed.

Managing to extract more than $14,000 from the pockets of those in attendance, master auctioneer Dominic Miller had bidders digging deep as he did the honours with the gavel.

Using his powers of persuasion, the auction of almost 30 items, the creations of several town identities and other various donors, realised twice that of last year.

Undoolya Station's Nicole Hayes created a stunning strawberry themed cupcake arrangement that can only be described as a work of art, which achieved more than $600.

Minister Josh Burgoyne's cricket themed cake was also a standout, selling for more than $500.

A bidding war erupted between two of the town's real estate principals, Marion Burton and Drew Hendriks, for a number of lots.

A very determined Ms Burton not wanting to be denied won the battle to literally take home the chocolates.

Others making successful bids were ASTC CEO, Andrew Willsmore and Federal Member for Lingiari, Marion Scrymgour.

Powering and watering community initiatives

By Gladys Barreta

APPLICATIONS are open for Power and Water Corporation's annual Community Partnerships Program, which supports Territory organisations delivering events, initiatives, and projects that make a difference across the NT.

The program offers up to $5000 per project from a total funding pool of $50,000, and has already supported more than 150 community groups during its 20-year history.

Power and Water also provides portable water trailers and refill stations free of charge for community events.

Chief Executive Officer Djuna Pollard said the program helped strengthen community connections and volunteer opportunities.

Some of the Red Centre recipients of the grants in previous years include the NT Writers Centre for the Writers Festival in Mparntwe/Alice Springs, Barkly Regional Arts, Blueearth, FABAlice, Red Desert Warriors and Rural Ladies Day in Alice Springs.

Applications close 5pm, Friday, November 14, for initiatives delivered between January 1 and December 31, 2026.

Proud to trade

By Gladys Barreta

THE chance to expand a community organisation formed to empower Northern Territory businesses has come to Alice Springs. Territory Proud provides small businesses across the NT with networking opportunities, support with the aim to raise the profile of local businesses. It has been a long time since Territory Proud, which was founded 22 years ago, has congregated in Alice Springs. While most of the organisation's members are currently based in the Top End, the focus is now shifting toward Central Australia. Last month, Territory Proud held a community event in Alice Springs, welcoming two board members from Darwin, vice-chair Willem Westra Van Holthe and Michael Foley. The organisation also has one local board member, Barbara Clifford, and a growing membership of 25. Vice-chair, Mr Westra Van Holthe said Territory Proud aimed to expand its reach and help small businesses in Alice Springs. "We are growing this and doing it for the love of the Territory," he said. "This is our first meet in Alice Springs for a while, and we want to expand our memberships and support local businesses. In the future, we also plan to connect with rural and remote communities and reach their businesses there." Currently, Territory Proud is self-funded through memberships and is committed to building a strong, connected network across the NT.

Top citizens

NOMINATIONS are now open for the 2026 Centralian Awards, celebrating the people who make Alice Springs such a special place to live. Each year, the Alice Springs Town Council (ASTC) honours locals who go above and beyond for their community from everyday volunteers and inspiring young leaders to organisers of standout local events. There are four award categories:

- Centralian Citizen of the Year
- Young Centralian Citizen of the Year
- Senior Centralian Citizen of the Year
- Community Event of the Year

Last year's Centralian Awards celebrated the remarkable efforts of community members including Jeanette and Peter Gurrie for their popular Halloween celebrations, young leader Armani Francois, dedicated volunteer Jovita Price, and the adventurous 2024 West Macs Monster event. Nominations for the 2026 awards close on November 17.

Halloween takes over

By Phil Williams

FOLLOWING a dress rehearsal in Todd Mall with the council pop-up party the previous night, Yepe's then Mt Johns were the places to be for Halloween trick or treating in Alice Springs.

On a warm night, big and little kids of all ages flocked to streets at the base of the East Macs as they dressed up in their best costumes and took on the personas of their alter egos.

Superheroes, ghosts, ghouls, zombies and all kinds of story book characters flooded the streets for the annual night of dress ups as they hunted down sweet treats that were to be found.

The Garden Guru

Geoff Miers

Grub, caterpillar damage

GRUBS and caterpillars can have devastating impacts on the home garden and it's often necessary to undertake actions to limit their impact, and where possible it best to adopt environmentally friendly management tools.

Many people today prefer to opt for environmentally friendly solutions to pest and disease management in the home garden, particularly where food plants are concerned.

Where caterpillars and grubs are concerned Dipel, Success and Pyrethrum are possibly the three best options that are considered environmentally friendly, not likely to impact on most friendly bugs in the garden and are least likely to impact on human beings.

When using Dipel you are effectively spraying your plants with a dormant bacteria that when consumed by grubs and caterpillars will ultimately result in their demise.

On consuming foliage that has been sprayed with Dipel grubs and caterpillars will stop feeding, dehydrate and die within a day or two.

This bacteria has no effect on anything but grubs and caterpillars, no impact on birds, pets and humans, it really is a great environmentally friendly management tool when chemicals are not the preferred option.

Success is another option as it is viewed by many as a safe environmentally friendly management tool against caterpillars and grubs.

Success is derived from natural bacteria found in soil.

In 1982 a research scientist was holidaying in the Caribbean and visited an old abandoned rum distillery on a tiny tropical island and came across a spot in the jungle where it was deathly silent.

In a climate where the incessant buzz of insect life drones for 24 hours, the quiet was deafening for the scientist.

Intrigued, the scientist took soil samples home, tested them and discovered a bacterium living in the soil that controlled certain insects.

Success Naturalyte was formulated using this bacteria and is so called because of its highly successful performance as a natural insecticide.

This product is a fast-acting natural insecticide with the efficiency equivalent to synthetic products.

It has low toxicity to beneficial insects such as ladybirds, and to birds, earthworms and mammals.

It controls a wide range of grubs and caterpillars including the cabbage white butterfly, the diamond back moth (cabbage moth) and heliothis caterpillars that can affect tomatoes, potatoes, lettuce and sweet corn.

It is also affective against tomato leafminer.

With the range of grubs and caterpillars it is affective against one would assume it would also be affective against the lawn grub and noting its effectiveness against tomato leafminer, it may also be affective against citrus leafminer.

Although this product is not systemic following application it does however move through the leaf surface via "translaminar movement" making it resistant to UV light and rain, once the spray has dried.

Talking to a research scientist it is said to be affective for three weeks after application and in fact he only had to spray twice in one season to keep his grubs under control.

A recent more traditional solution to man-

Many people prefer to opt for environmentally friendly solutions to managing pests, including the cabbage white butterfly. (Pixabay) aging grubs and caterpillars is spraying with Pyrethrum.

While largely synthetically manufactured these days Pyrethrum was traditionally extracted from the Pyrethrum daisy and seen as a natural solution to pest management.

Pyrethrum is to be sprayed on plants being impacted upon by an invasion of grubs and caterpillars and will "knock-them-off" quickly often within minutes of application.

Pyrethrum is a popular solution to grub and caterpillar problems as it is fast acting, most effective on contact and has the advantage of having a half-life of 12 hours.

When sprayed early morning, by the end of the day the hours of sunlight have largely broken down the pyrethrum spray effectively neutralising it and making it largely safe.

If using Pyrethrum on food plants, I would wait 24 hours before harvesting produce and ensure I have given the food produce a good wash however - I am rather cautious.

Naturalyte can control grubs and caterpillars that can affect tomatoes, potatoes, lettuce and sweet corn.

ACHIEVER: Warumungu man, Jaiden Dickenson with his Young Australian of the Year award for his youth diversion work in Tennant Creek.

First award, top of Australia

By Gladys Barreta

FOR Warumungu man Jaiden Dickenson, helping young people in his hometown get back on track and reducing crime in Tennant Creek are the driving forces behind his work and the reason he's been named the Territory's most recent Young Australian of the Year.

Jaiden has had an incredible start to his career, with the first award he has ever won being this year's Young Australian of the Year for the Northern Territory.

He has been working in the youth space since leaving school about 18 months ago.

His first job was with the night youth patrol, picking kids up off the streets at night.

He later moved into Youth Diversion, where he now case-manages young people referred through the courts, helping them take accountability for their actions and repair the harm caused to victims.

Jaiden began working straight after high school, a full-circle moment and having gone through Tennant Creek Mob's Youth Diversion Program himself when he was younger.

"When I finished school, the Mob offered me a job," Jaiden said.

"The Tennant Creek Mob is like a big family. There are lots of young people working here now because they've seen us older youth working and wanted to do the same."

For Jaiden, it's all about being a role model for his peers and showing them there's a positive path forward.

"I always tell young people who want a job to come to the Mob, because they train and support us," he said.

"I love helping kids get back on the right track so they don't end up in jail. I also love the work I'm doing because it helps reduce crime in our community."

Jaiden admits the job isn't easy especially, as a young person himself, and that it can be tough seeing others unwilling to change.

"Some families don't want to change their ways to help their children. That makes me sad," he said.

Having lived in Tennant Creek his whole life, Jaiden has seen many young people struggle and wants to be someone who helps guide them.

"It's important to me to be there to help them make better decisions, just like others did for me," he said.

"It's really important for young people to have someone believe in them and it shows them someone cares. I know that because I was that kid, and someone believed in me and gave me opportunities."

Jaiden's vision for Tennant Creek is to bring people together and make it a better place for everyone to live. He plans to keep working with the younger generation in his town.

"I want to tell kids out there they can be anything they want to be," he said.

"Don't let your home or family situation hold you back... just keep climbing the ladder."

CELEBRATE: Jaiden Dickenson at the awards ceremony held in Darwin on November 3.

MOB: Jaiden Dickenson has been working with Tennant Creek Mob helping kids get back on track for the last 18 months.

ACHIEVER: Warumungu man, Jaiden Dickenson from Tennant Creek standing proud with his Young Australian of the Year award.

Playing Return to Paradise's Philomena Strong should be a cinch for experienced TV cop Catherine McClements. But as the Water Rats star explains to Siobhan Duck, stepping into the senior sergeant's shoes isn't so easy

THE clothes may maketh the man. But the hat can be a woman's undoing, just ask Catherine McClements.

The best part of reprising her role as Senior Sergeant Philomena Strong in Return to Paradise for McClements was learning that she would no longer have to wear the police hat she donned all through season one.

"She gets one outing in season two, when I put her under my arm as I walk out," she laughs of the dreaded headwear.

"But the hat is not back. No one liked the hat. The hat wore me and not the other way around."

A spin-off to the hugely popular British series Death in Paradise, quirky mystery Return to Paradise follows the socially awkward but talented police detective Mackenzie Clarke (Anna Samson) as she returns home to solve crimes in the sleepy seaside township of Dolphin Cove after a stint working for the London Metropolitan Police.

McClements plays Mackenzie's boss and ex mother-in-law.

"This character is a little bit emotionally [limited] and so is Mackenzie," she reflects.

"That's partly the pleasure of playing them. They're not the hyper-emotional, hyper-caring, soft-hearted [role] that the female copper often is to play.

"They're awkward people that are learning about all that within the world of policing, which I like."

Although her third tilt at playing a cop, Return to Paradise is McClements' first stint in uniform, having previously played plain clothes detectives on Water Rats and Rush.

She believes most actors find it easy to tap into their "inner cop", given there's such a proliferation of them on TV and in film.

"The challenge, I suppose, when you do it is to find the human being behind the uniform," she explains.

Managing to look comfortable in Philomena's uniform is also a work in progress for McClements, who explains that the synthetic shirts are stifling in the heat and the high-waisted trousers aren't overly forgiving after a big lunch.

Apart from that, as the only one in the buttoned-up blues, McClements can feel a bit like a fish out of water alongside her castmates.

"I think it's partly because the landscape of Return to Paradise is this beachy, beautiful, sunny [setting] and I'm in this sort of blue, stitched-up uniform with the bow tie and the hat," she laughs.

"I am finding it hard to manage. Whereas Celia [Ireland, who plays police volunteer Reggie Rocco] gets to wear the shorts and an open-neck shirt and Aaron [McGrath, who plays Constable Felix Wilkinson], he'd look good in anything. He just wears it so beautifully. So, I've got a bit to work on."

On the case: Catherine McClements plays Dolphin Cove's straitlaced Senior Sergeant Philomena Strong in Aussie spin-off Return to Paradise.

Unlike her Logie-winning turn as Rachel Goldstein in Water Rats, McClements is grateful that playing Philomena doesn't involve a lot of action sequences.

"I don't have to run in those heels anymore," McClements says.

"I was just so desperate to run fast in Water Rats. I remember one day, a cameraman saying that they needed one of us to drop back to get Steve [Bisley] and I both in the frame. But neither of us would let it go. We just kept sprinting and were always running neck and neck.

"I still think I won, because I was doing it in heels and he was in flats."

Of all her work on-screen, it's Water Rats that people still associate most with McClements. Perhaps because strong female characters like Rachel were rare at the time, meaning the character was more memorable for viewers.

"Interestingly though, people don't really recognise me very much," she says.

"I find that a badge of honour. People think I went to school with them, or they ask: 'Are you in healthcare?'"

"I love it, because I always imagine I don't look anything like the characters I play."

Not wanting to break that spell, McClements avoids watching herself on-screen.

And so, she's not yet had the pleasure of seeing herself in shows such as this year's The Family Next Door (ABC iview) or The Survivors (Netflix), as well as her award-winning turns in Tangle and The Secret Life of Us.

Over the years, Tangle fans have held out hope that the Foxtel drama could make a return, especially given that stars such as Kat Stewart and Lincoln Younes have both expressed a readiness to reprise their roles.

But McClements, who played the uptight Christine Williams for all three seasons, isn't so sure that any of her impressive back catalogue should be brought back to life.

"I think television should move on," she shrugs.

"There's a new generation and new stories to be told."

An exception to that rule, of course, was Wentworth, a reboot of the 1970s drama Prisoner, that carved its own place into TV history by putting a modern spin on old characters and storylines.

In a huge plot twist, McClements' character Meg Jackson (played by Elsbeth Ballantyne in all 692 episodes of Prisoner) was murdered in the very first episode.

"That was clever of them, wasn't it?" McClements smiles of her shocking death scene.

"I had to do all the bloody publicity after only doing one episode, just to keep up the idea. And I was in all the posters!"

The opening episode of Return to Paradise serves as something of a Wentworth reunion for McClements, with Danielle Cormack (who played Wentworth's Bea Smith) appearing as a suspect in the first murder of the second season. Paradise series regular Ireland also appeared in the hit drama as Lizzie Birdsworth.

One of the perks of Return to Paradise that McClements relishes is the revolving door of guest actors who join the party each week.

In addition to Cormack, this season will also feature McClements' Tangle co-star Justine Clarke, musician Tim Rogers, Colin from Accounts star Helen Thomson and Top End Bub creator Miranda Tapsell.

As for McClements, top of her wish list for future guest stars are the crème de la crème of comedy.

"I'd love to see Judith Lucy, Denise Scott, Gina Riley, Jane Turner or Magda Szubanski on the show," she says.

"They all really helped me get through my 20s. Those women were just brilliant. And it would be an honour to have any of them on."

Hats off to McClements, those ladies would make an hilarious line-up of suspects.

PICK OF THE WEEK

Witness protection: Detectives Cooper and Falk (Jacqueline McKenzie and Eric Bana) investigate the disappearance of a hiker (Anna Torv, inset) in The Dry 2.

Friday
FORCE OF NATURE: THE DRY 2
Imparja, 8.10pm, M (2024)

When five women head out on a remote corporate hiking retreat, but only four return, detectives Aaron Falk (Eric Bana) and Carmen Cooper (Jacqueline McKenzie) must untangle their conflicting stories to trace the group's path through the wilderness before time runs out. The missing woman (Anna Torv) also happens to be the police informant in a money laundering case against the company – could her disappearance be more sinister than the case of a lost hiker? A sequel to 2020 film The Dry and once again based on the novel by Jane Harper, this absorbing, intellectual mystery makes the most of its atmospheric outdoor setting and the unpredictability of the Australian landscape. ★★★★★

A CINDERELLA STORY
9Go!, Friday, 6pm, PG (2004)

The slipper of yore is replaced by a cellphone as the Cinderella fairytale is transplanted to modern-day California, where dorky, hard-working teen Samantha (Hilary Duff) falls for a boy online. Little does she realise the object of her affection is the school hunk (Chad Michael Murray, pictured with Duff). Its best moments usually involve Jennifer Coolidge as Samantha's evil, Botox-addicted stepmother. Panned by critics at launch, this teenage tale has evolved into a comfort-watch classic. ★★★★★

BLACK ADAM
Imparja, Saturday, 7pm, M (2022)

Dwayne Johnson (pictured) is a formidable presence in this DC Comics adaptation as the titular anti-hero, though a lot of complicated lore is needed to tell the tale of an ancient god, imprisoned for thousands of years, who is then released from his tomb and vents his fury upon the world. It's up to some of the lesser-known DC heroes, including Hawkman (Aldis Hodge) and Cyclone (Quintessa Swindell), to stop him. Pierce Brosnan adds a touch of class as an older, magic-wielding hero. ★★★★★

INDEPENDENCE DAY: RESURGENCE
Seven, Saturday, 6.30pm, M (2016)

Twenty-two years after Independence Day set about destroying every landmark of note, it's time for round two, as the aliens return with a larger, more powerful battle fleet to threaten the existence of humans once again. Will Smith isn't joining in the fun a second time around, but Jeff Goldblum is back as the head of Earth's defence project. Taking over from Smith as the quick-tempered hotshot pilot is Aussie Liam Hemsworth (pictured). It's utter nonsense of the most entertaining kind. ★★★★★

DJANGO UNCHAINED
7mate, Sunday, 7pm, MA15+ (2012)

After taking on the Nazis in Inglourious Basterds, director Quentin Tarantino set his sights on slavery in the South and came up with this exhilarating spaghetti western. Although the dialogue dazzles, it's the casting that stands out. Dr Schultz (Christoph Waltz), a German dentist-turned-bounty-hunter, frees Django (Jamie Foxx, pictured, right, with Waltz), a slave who's hellbent on rescuing his wife from the plantation owned by Calvin Candie (Leonardo DiCaprio). ★★★★★

CROCODILE DUNDEE
Imparja, Monday, 8.10pm, M (1986)

Australia's biggest overseas success can still give viewers a buzz thanks to Paul Hogan's (pictured) extremely funny slice of Outback character. Linda Kozlowski is a visiting Yank reporter doing a piece on life Down Under, teaming up with Hogan's croc hunter, "Mick" Dundee, who shows her a world of adventure and romance. When she returns to the Big Apple with Mick, he gets a bit of culture shock too, but thankfully he can rely on his Outback skills in any situation. A beaut. ★★★★★

ROGUE AGENT
SBS World Movies, Wednesday, 9.30pm, M (2022)

True-crime aficionados are sure to be wooed by this stylish thriller that tells the extraordinary real-life story of British con man Robert Freegard. Happy Valley villain James Norton plays the master manipulator, a luxury car salesman who exploits his victims under the false pretence he's an undercover MI5 agent looking for new recruits. Freegard eventually meets his match in quick-witted lawyer Alice Archer (Gemma Arterton, pictured with Norton), who seeks to bring him to justice. ★★★★★

MARY BERRY'S ULTIMATE CHRISTMAS
SBS Food, Friday, 8.30pm

OK, so it's only mid-November... but as those already fixated on festive hosting duties can tell you, as of Friday, there's only 41 sleeps until December 25. A terrifying thought for the rest of us, but don't fear, if anyone can make Christmas catering fun, easy and utterly delicious, it's Dame Mary Berry (pictured). This is the former Great British Bake Off judge's 2022 special, but Berry has been cooking these recipes for more than 50 years, so what's another three? From a stilton and sage canapé to a lemon-and-herb roast turkey, pudding, trifle and, of course, a festive cranberry cocktail, these tasty treats will have you wishing away the next six weeks as you plan your own festive feast.

PICK OF THE WEEK

RETURN TO PARADISE
ABC TV, Saturday, 7.30pm

This local Death in Paradise spin-off faced serious competition at the Logie Awards this year, but came out ahead of Bump, The Newsreader and The Twelve to win Most Outstanding Drama Series, so detective Mackenzie Clarke (Anna Samson) and co. must be doing something right. Despite plans to be back in the UK, Mack is reluctantly still in Dolphin Cove, trying to work out if she can put her heart on the line and tell her ex-fiancé Glenn (Tai Hara, pictured with Samson) how she feels. In the meantime, there's plenty of seemingly impossible murder cases to solve, starting with the discovery of a poisoned scientist on a shark research facility's runaway boat.

PORTRAIT ARTIST OF THE YEAR
ABC TV, Sunday, 8pm

This captivating competition series is like a cross between Anh's Brush with Fame and The Great Australian Bake Off. In each instalment, nine amateur or professional artists have four hours to create a portrait of a well-known face. Their work is then judged by art experts, who ultimately choose one to have a commission hung in Canberra's National Portrait Gallery. This week's sitters include Gardening Australia stalwart Costa Georgiadis, actor Talijah Blackman-Corowa (Black Snow) and stand-up comedian Celia Pacquola (pictured). Hosted by award-winning actor Miranda Tapsell (Top End Bub) and flame-haired funnyman Luke McGregor, it's fascinating on every level.

JAMIE DURIE'S FUTURE HOUSE
Imparja, Tuesday, 8pm

Landscaper-turned-TV-host Jamie Durie (pictured) puts his money where his mouth is in this new series that aims to tackle Australia's housing crisis with savvy design, innovative building methods and environmental impact front of mind. Having recently completed the decade-long process of constructing an off-grid masterpiece in Pittwater, NSW, Durie promised partner Ameka that he was "done building", but she laughed, "I know better". Durie sets out to 3D-print a house on their Byron Bay farm in just three months, while also following three families facing council red tape, financial hurdles and wild weather in the process of fast-tracking their own revolutionary sustainable homes.

Every trick in the book: Author Aggie (Claire Danes) and her neighbour Nile (Matthew Rhys) engage in a game of cat and mouse.

THE TRUTH HURTS

THE BEAST IN ME
Streaming, Netflix

NETFLIX

Claire Danes and Matthew Rhys spearheaded two of the most compelling TV dramas of the past decade, with Homeland and The Americans, respectively. So the thought of the two award-winning stars going head to head in a psychological thriller is sure to intrigue any viewer.

Danes plays Aggie Wiggs, a reclusive author who is battling writer's block in the wake of her young son's tragic death. Rhys is her mysterious new neighbour Nile Jarvis, a slimy real estate mogul who was once the prime suspect in his first wife's disappearance.

At once intrigued and repulsed by Nile, Aggie offers him the chance to clear his name once and for all as the subject of her long-delayed follow-up novel. However, she soon finds herself questioning his motives and obsessively searching for the truth in a potentially lethal game of cat and mouse.

Natalie Morales co-stars as Aggie's ex, Shelley, while The Hunting Wives standout Brittany Snow plays Nile's new spouse, Nina.

Showrunner Howard Gordon, who collaborated with Danes on espionage thriller Homeland, says she possesses a remarkable talent to portray complex emotions.

"[Danes] really has that uniquely rare ability to convey the most interior thoughts, and you know what's going on inside her," he says. "There's a fierce intelligence, but there's also her vulnerability. She really conveys that."

Equally, Rhys kept Danes on her toes, Gordon says. "Not only was I surprised by their chemistry, but how virtuosic he was," he says.

This twisted eight-part drama should rocket to the top of your watchlist. – Travis Lewis

Colin From Accounts co-creator and star Harriet Dyer (pictured) brings the same wit and charm to her role as a driving instructor at the centre of this workplace comedy. Set in a branch of the department of motor vehicles, the hilarious series follows public servants caught in the seemingly endless frustrations of office politics and dealing with the community.

PALM ROYALE

Streaming, Apple TV

Apple TV

After a scandalous public breakdown at the end of season one, ruthlessly ambitious socialite Maxine (Kristen Wiig, pictured) must use her wits to regain her standing in Florida's exclusive community Palm Beach. Season two of this gloriously escapist period comedy welcomes some fresh faces to the invite-only club, including Broadway legend Patti LuPone.

Despite what they might tell you, there's no saints in the cast of this scandal-driven reality series following a group of Mormon influencers in Utah. Now balancing the complexities of fame with friendship and fertility, the members of "MomTok" find their sisterhood is hanging on by a thread when this third season begins. Whitney has plans to start her own group, while Demi embraces her villain era as a morality war begins.

French author Pierre Choderlos de Laclos has inspired countless storytellers with his 1782 novel Dangerous Liaisons, from the 1988 period drama of the same name to the 1999 classic Cruel Intentions. This lush series serves as a prequel to the classic book, following the Marquise de Merteuil (Anamaria Vartolomei, pictured) as she embarks on a quest for empowerment in 18th-century Paris, where she becomes a courtesan.

PLAYDATE

This action flick sounds like the sort of fun but forgettable project that usually stars comedian Kevin Hart and Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson. Instead, this action-packed tale follows The King of Queens' Kevin James and Reacher star Alan Ritchson (both pictured) as stay-at-home dads who agree to a playdate and soon find themselves in a desperate fight for their lives.

‘Nordic Wonders’ voyage

By Lee McCarthy

DISCOVER nature and culture with Viking's brand new eight day 'Nordic Wonders' voyage from Bergen to Oslo or vice versa.

Sail the dramatic Norwegian fjords and explore the serene shores of Denmark to discover a region shaped by the sea.

In Norway, deep inlets and towering cliffs reveal a landscape both powerful and peaceful.

Once guests have arrived in Bergen it's time to settle into one of the wide varieties of stunning staterooms on offer from Veranda Staterooms to the abundance of extra perks and amenities in the spacious Explorer Suites.

There is no finer way to travel, and whichever stateroom travellers choose, it will be beautifully designed in the understated elegance for which Viking is known.

Bergen is home to the Hanseatic League's only kontor (trading enclave) still in existence. Bryggen wharf, a row of timbered Hanseatic warehouses along a quaint quay, is a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

Narrow wooden walkways are flanked by parallel rows of small, vibrantly painted buildings overlooking the picturesque Vågen Harbor.

This is perhaps the most charming district of Bergen and a delight to explore, from its tight-knit community of workshops where artisans sell their wares to its cafes where freshly prepared smørbrød, or open-faced sandwiches, are on the menu.

During the cruise guests can enjoy tours including the Secrets of Cider guided tour of the farmlands of Norway and witness magnificent fjord landscapes, fruit orchards, family-owned traditional farms and the famous Hardangerfjord.

The Hardanger Juice and Cider Factory, located on a fruit farm where first-rate juice, cider and apple brandy are made offers a guided tour of the farm to learn about its production methods, with a chance to sample Norway's freshest nectar with stunning views of the orchard.

For those seeking more activity, perhaps a kayaking adventure through stunning scenery with a chance to get closer to wildlife may appeal.

Take in the scenery from the water, on board a two-person kayak on a tour of the Eidfjord considered one of the most beautiful fjords in Norway.

An experienced guide will run through a full safety briefing, before those keen to participate can climb inside the kayak and paddle through the fjord.

Paddlers will be captivated with the amazing wildlife and striking sights that surround the kayak and take the chance to learn about the history and nature of the fjord during several stops along the way.

Each activity available for guests, includes information such as the duration of the tour, the fitness level required and guides are on hand to help ensure each sightseeing tour is enjoyed to its fullest and safest.

For those with moderate fitness an excursion to Ravnaldalen Park along with a panoramic coast drive to coastal villages and a leisurely stroll through the gardens is recommended. The tour passes through Kristiansand's old town, Posebyen where guests marvel at its colourful wooden houses.

In Denmark, minimalist design and a strong sense of well-being reflect a culture grounded in simplicity and slow living as embodied in the concept of hygge.

A visit to Clausholm Castle, the well-preserved Baroque-style manor house is one history buffs will love. The castle is one of the earliest and most complete examples of baroque buildings in Denmark. Surrounded by bucolic park and lush gardens the stately Clausholm embodies the ideals of the baroque movement in its beautiful symmetry.

Passengers can choose to take the included tour of the small, picturesque fishing village of Skagen, Denmark's northernmost town. Its origins can be traced back to the thirteenth century, and it is a chance to discover its treasures, journeying along the waterfront and past traditional fishing boats as your guide shares stories of Skagen's maritime heritage. At Kystmuseet, the Museum of Local History, uncover more of the village's past and explore its exhibits

Together, these Nordic neighbours offer a journey rich in natural beauty and cultural depth.

Viking's inclusive value includes everything you need, such as a guided excursion in every port, all onboard meals including alternative dining venues, wine and beer with lunch and dinner, unlimited Wi-Fi, 24-hour specialty tea, coffee, and bottled water, access to the state-of-the-art Nordic spa, self-service laundry, and all tipping.

With no kids, no casinos, fewer than 1,000 guests, and all veranda staterooms, Viking's award-winning ships take you as close as possible to each destination.

The Nordic Wonders cruise is priced from $8,695 per person in a Veranda Stateroom and for those who book before 1 December 2025, your companion flies free up to the value of AU$2,500 per couple.

Don't miss the chance to tour the Nordic Wonders in style with Viking. Contact today on 138 747 or find out more at www.viking.com.

Tali abuzz for Cup Day

By Phil Williams

ON Melbourne Cup Day, the annual luncheon at Tali was the epicenter of fashion and excitement.

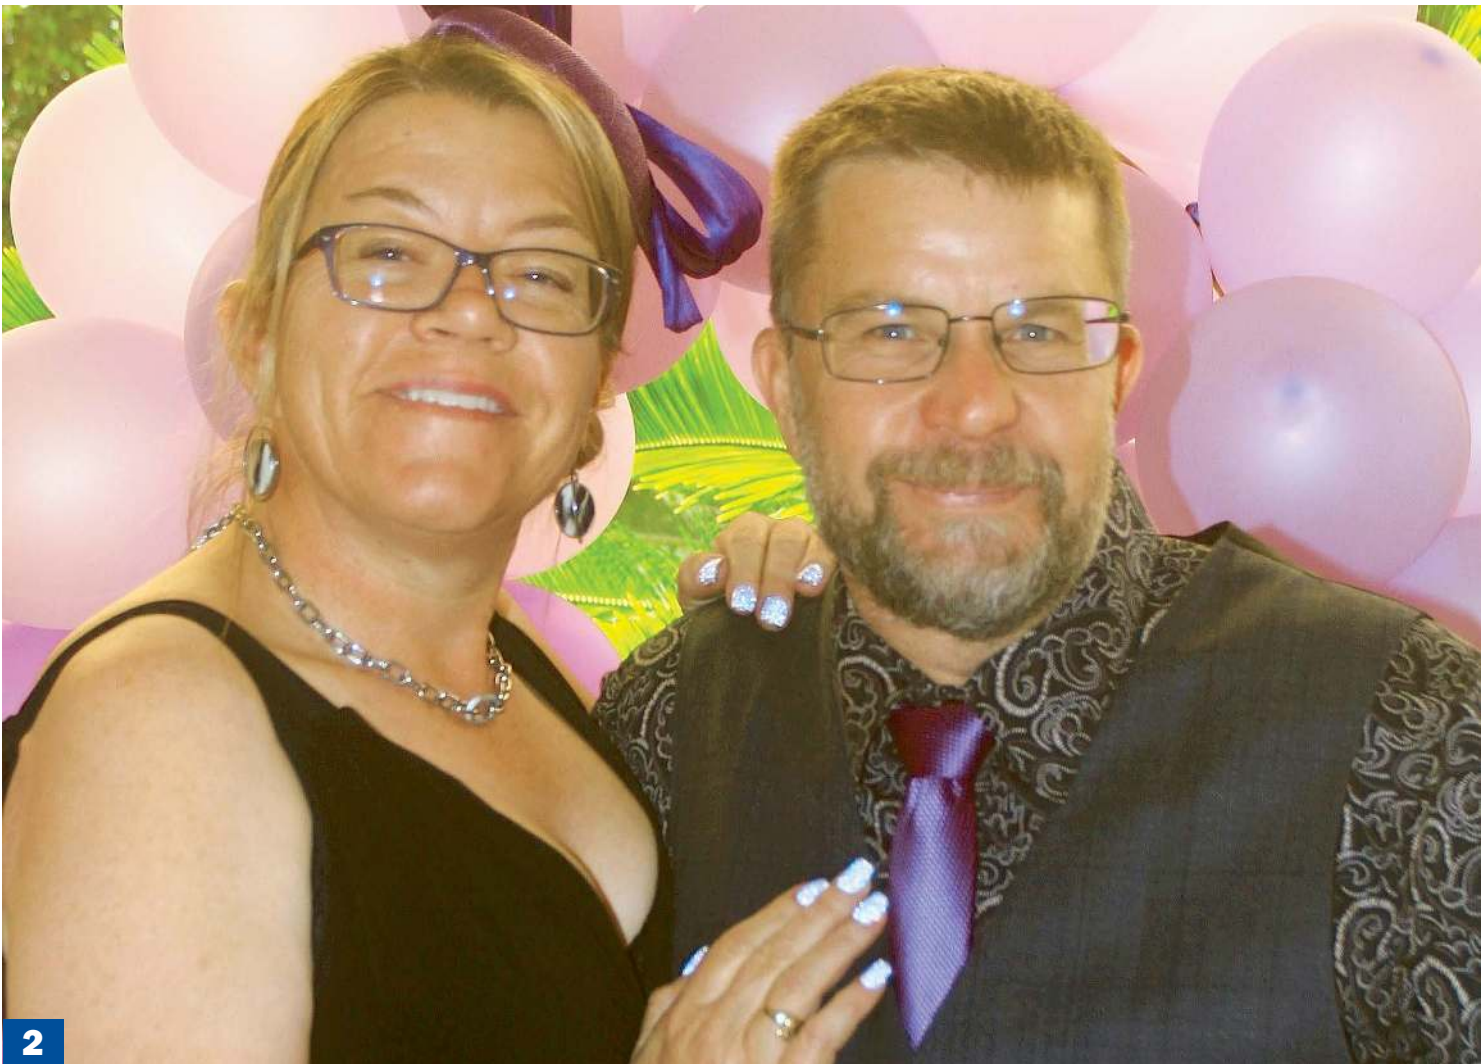

Dressed in their finest, the full venue was abuzz with eager punters there for a good time and to witness the race that stops the nation.

The Fashions on the Field competition was the highlight, with Lynn Hilton emerging as the best-dressed lady and Darcy Imhof, 'dressed by Bec,' being named the best-dressed man.

Adding to the atmosphere was the anticipation of Lucky Door Prize with Barbara Clifford taking home the big goody hamper.

Colourful Onam celebration

By Gladys Barreta

THE Alice Springs Malayalee Association (AMA) celebrated Onam 2025 in vibrant style, showcasing Kerala's rich cultural heritage and strong community spirit in Alice Springs.

Onam, an annual harvest and Hindu cultural festival traditionally celebrated in Kerala, was brought to life locally as the AMA hosted a colourful event featuring cultural performances on October 25.

This year's celebration was the association's largest to date, with more than 700 participants, marking AMA's biggest community gathering.

The association aims to promote cultural inclusivity and unity within Alice Springs through these events.

"For Malayalees living abroad and here in Alice Springs, Onam is a living link to their heritage. Sharing it with our wider community ensures that culture remains vibrant and relevant, not confined by geography," AMA member Vikas T.V. said.

"Celebrating festivals like Onam provides an opportunity for migrants and locals alike to connect. The Alice Springs Malayalee Association extends sincere appreciation to all performers, volunteers, sponsors, and community members for their invaluable support in making Onam 2025 a memorable and successful celebration."

MOMENTO: AMA's Momento presentation for Councillor Damien Ryan with Ponnada Aniyikkal.

Services of Central Australia (MCSCA) Mona Ulak, and MCSCA Manager Joy Taylor.

The celebrations featured a range of traditional and contemporary performances highlighting Kerala's music, dance, and festive customs.

The highlight of the event was the Onam Sadhya, an authentic Kerala feast enjoyed by attendees reflecting the spirit of togetherness that Onam represents.

Born and bred local announced as Alice's top cop

By Phil Williams

THE Northern Territory Government has announced that Acting Police Commissioner, Martin Dole APM is to be appointed to the role on a permanent basis and will be based out of Alice Springs.

Born and bred in Alice Springs, and raised in Yuendumu in his early years, Commissioner Dole carries a deep sense of pride and connection with Aboriginal communities.

It is a perspective that continues to shape his approach to community policing and engagement across the Territory.

Mr Dole was elevated to Acting Commissioner earlier this year after the previous Police Commissioner, Michael Murphy was dumped from the role after an Independent Commission Against Corruption (ICAC) had found he had acted inappropriately when appointing a friend to a senior police role, in what became known as the Jobs for a Mate scandal..

Mr Dole's tenure as the Territory's top cop will be marked with a ceremony at Government House later this month.

Chief Minister Lia Finocchiaro confirmed that the process is underway to appoint Mr Dole as the 15th Commissioner of the Northern Territory Police Force.

In a statement Ms Finocchiaro said Cabinet has endorsed the appointment of Mr Dole to a four year-term, with the recommendation now proceeding to the NT Administrator Hugh Heggie for his honour's formal approval.

APPOINTED: Martin Dole APM has been permanently appointed as the 15th NT Police Commissioner. (Phil Williams: 489356)

Chief Minister Finocchiaro, who is also the NT Police Minister said Acting Commissioner Dole, a veteran of NT Police, brings exceptional leadership and a deep understanding of the challenges and commitment required to reduce crime across the Territory.

"Over the past seven months I have worked with Acting Commissioner Dole directly and seen him focus on the interests of frontline officers and community safety," Mrs Finocchiaro said.

"I am confident Commissioner Dole will take the force forward in the interests of the community and our hardworking front line.

"The NT Police has secured the best pay deal in Australia, and I believe now have the best Commissioner to take the force forward, she said.

"Commissioner Dole has had an exceptional career, combining frontline and executive experience across urban, regional, and remote communities.

During his extensive career, Commissioner Dole has played a key role in several major initiatives and investigations across the Territory.

In 2014 he oversaw the first protracted murder investigation into the domestic homicide of Carlie Sinclair working with police agencies across three jurisdictions and in 2019, he was the Detective Superintendent in charge the mass shootings in Darwin at the hands of Benjamin Hoffman.

Mr Dole also has extensive emergency management experience acting as both Territory controller and Regional controller for southern and northern emergency management events, including the devastating Barkly fires in 2023 and catastrophic flood and cyclone events.

Mr Dole has forged strong relationships with law enforcement around the world with extensive knowledge in International and National best practice in policing.

In 2017 he completed the residential law enforcement program at the FBI National academy at Quantico in the United States.

More recently he has developed and rolled-out the Police Public Safety Officers program as well as having developed and implemented the current OC Spray trial and delivered the recent police Enterprise Bargaining Agreement.

Ms Finocchiaro reaffirmed her government's confidence in Commissioner Dole's leadership.

"I have full confidence in Commissioner Dole and look forward to working closely with him to continue driving down crime and improving safety across the Northern Territory, as part of our Crime Reduction Strategy," Mrs Finocchiaro said.

"NT Police has faced significant challenges over many years. Now it is time to move forward with strong leadership and a clear focus.

"Looking ahead, our priority is reducing property crime, tackling violence and keeping our communities safe."

A ceremony to mark the commencement of Commissioner Dole's tenure will be held at Government House on October 31, which will be 29 years to the day he graduated as constable.

Honouring Roger Vale

By Phil Williams

ROGER Vale Drive, which was gazetted on April 13, 2005, extends from South Stuart Highway to the airport and commemorates the late Honourable Roger William Standley Vale MLA.

Roger Vale was born on June 26, 1942 in rural Victoria and came to Central Australia during the 1960s to run the former Magellan Petroleum supply and warehouse facilities.

This position gave him an insight into problems associated with working in Central Australia.

In 1974 he entered politics as the Member of the Legislative Assembly for Stuart, in the NT's first government, becoming the Member for Braiiting in 1983 and held the seat until he retired due to ill health in 1994.

While he was the Member for Braiiting, he was the Legislative Assembly Speaker from 1986-1989 and a Minister from 1989 to 1992.

He was one of the most highly supported candidates electorally for the Legislative Assembly of the NT.

Among Vale's many achievements while in Parliament were having the Alice Springs to Port Augusta road surfaced with bitumen and having Darwin's Channel Island Powerhouse fired by Central Australian natural gas.

An avid football fan, he played for Pioneer Football Club and following his playing career, he took an active role in the club's management, particularly offering young Aboriginal players, who admired him immensely, an abundance of assistance and mentoring.

Vale was also a driving force behind the creation of the Ghan Preservation Society and the Alice Springs Transport Hall of Fame.

Roger Vale died on 10 April 2001 and was survived by his wife Irene, who he married in 1962, and their daughters Kate and Mandy.

His family was offered a State Funeral, which was accepted, and he was buried in the Alice Springs Cemetery.

Vale was sorely missed by the community as he was always so approachable and unassuming and helped people in many ways.

EXCELLENCE: Two of the Culture Care Connect team at the National Rural and Remote Health Awards, Rachel and Sheena Abbott.

CCC's life-saving work

By Gladys Barreta

THE Culture Care Connect (CCC) Suicide Prevention Team has been recognised nationally for its life-saving work in Central Australia, winning the Excellence in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Healthcare Award at the 2025 National Rural and Remote Health Awards in Canberra on November 5.

The all-Aboriginal team of five provides trauma-informed aftercare and suicide prevention support to individuals, families and communities across remote regions around Alice Springs. Their work combines cultural healing practices with mental health care, guided by the Social and Emotional Wellbeing (SEWB) framework.

Between July 2024 and June 2025, the team supported more than 200 clients, delivering care that is both culturally safe and community-led.

Team member Wayne Clarke said the award was encouraging recognition for their challenging but vital work.

"It's recognition for the difficult work we do in Central Australia, providing a service to the most vulnerable people in our community," he said.

"It's vital work, and I do worry about the future for our young people who are struggling today, and that's why what we're doing matters."

Rachel Abbott said being recognised on a national stage means a lot.

"To be acknowledged in this way shows we're doing something good and right for our people," she said.

"It's so important for mob to see Aboriginal faces, to feel heard and understood."

Sheena Abbott said the award highlights the team's shared passion and dedication.

"We're a small team, but we're committed to helping our people and letting them know there's support out there," she said.

Manager Alice Campbell-Jones said the recognition was well deserved.

"It's so important that the team are acknowledged for the relentless work they do day in and day out," she said.

"Aboriginal people are two and a half times more likely to take their own life, so providing the right cultural support is crucial."

The CCC team continues to play a vital role in strengthening emotional wellbeing and community resilience throughout Central Australia.

Bringing Hamilton to life

THE real-life of one of America's foremost founding fathers and first Secretary of the Treasury, Alexander Hamilton.

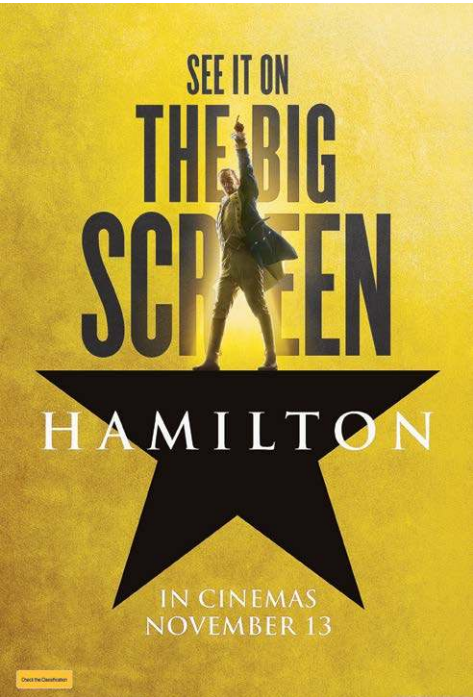

Filmed live on Broadway from the Richard Rodgers Theatre with the original Broadway cast.

"On film, Hamilton feels every bit as fresh, invigorating, intoxicating, and revolutionary as it did when it premiered five years ago." - Maureen Lee Lenker, Entertainment Weekly

"For fans who have never had a chance to see the show, it's a dream come true. For the uninitiated, it remains the cultural event of a troubled season." - Tara Brady, Irish Times

"How does it play? With the same verbal and musical fireworks as the stage version, and with the same emotional kick, which is rooted in the casting." - John Anderson, Wall Street Journal

NT's thriving enterprises

ABORIGINAL Territorians and majority Aboriginal-owned NT businesses who are keen to grow and develop within the tourism industry are now being invited to apply for the NT Aboriginal Tourism Business Accelerator Program.

The nine-month program will offer tailored business coaching, networking opportunities, and hands-on learning through Aboriginal tourism experience familiarisations.

Up to 15 participants will be selected from across the Territory through a competitive application process.

Over the course of the program, participants will strengthen their business models, financial management, marketing strategies, and presentation skills, culminating in a professional tourism product pitch to industry representatives.

Previous participants have included tourism and hospitality operators, start-ups, and emerging business owners eager to expand their offerings and showcase authentic Aboriginal culture.

Department of Tourism and Hospitality CEO Suzana Bishop said the program helps Aboriginal Territorians connect with the industry and share their culture.

"This program supports Aboriginal entrepreneurs to develop their products and create more opportunities to showcase the NT's rich and vibrant Aboriginal culture," she said.

IBA CEO David Knights said the initiative helps turn tourism aspirations into thriving enterprises.

"By providing tailored coaching and industry connections, we're strengthening the Territory's tourism sector and celebrating the diversity of Aboriginal culture," he said.

The program is returning for its third year and is delivered by the NT Government in partnership with Indigenous Business Australia (IBA).

Applications close December 5, 2025. For details or to apply, visit iba.gov.au.

ClickFit is taking on crims

By Phil Williams

A joint operation to tackle cybercrime, 'ClickFit' has been launched by the Australian Federal Police (AFP), Northern Territory Police and all other Australian police forces.

Territorians are being urged to slow their scroll and stop before clicking on suspicious links, as data reveals unsafe online habits continue to give cybercriminals the upper hand.

In a national response, the AFP-led Joint Policing Cybercrime Coordination Centre (JPC3) has launched ClickFit, an awareness campaign designed to help people recognise the warning signs of cybercrime.

It comes as new findings show too many online users are not adopting necessary safety measures and too few are reporting incidents to police when targeted by cybercriminals.

Reporting rates in 2024 ranged from eight per cent for malware to 22 per cent for fraud and scams.

According to the Australian Institute of Criminology's Cybercrime in Australia 2024 report, many victims believed their experience was not serious enough to report or that nothing could be done.

The AFP said every cybercrime report, no matter how small, could help police track criminals, shut down their networks, help build intelligence on emerging cyber threats, and prevent other people from being targeted.

Supported by every state and territory police force, ClickFit encourages people to take a moment to stop their scroll, check for warning signs of scams and protect themselves from cybercrime.

AFP Acting Commander of Cybercrime Operations Marie Andersson said the message for digital consumers was clear.

The online world was incredible, but it was important to develop cyber tools and skills to navigate it confidently and safely.

"Research shows our online habits directly impact our risk profile and many Australians overlook simple steps to stay secure online, which can prevent their victimisation," AC Andersson said.

"Just like drivers learn to spot hazards on the road, we want online users to learn to recognise the warning signs of cybercrime.

"After all, the more we drive, the better we get at navigating blind spots and reacting safely to avoid an accident.

"Online safety works the same way. The more aware we are of checking our digital blind spots (such as) suspicious text messages, shady email attachments or fake investment ads, the better we are at steering clear of cyber threats."

The JPC3 brings together Australian law enforcement and key industry and international partners to fight cybercrime and prevent harm and financial loss to the Australian community.

In a recent case investigated by Tasmania Police, a man lost more than $400,000 to a sophisticated cryptocurrency investment scam, despite advice from his bank and police.

AC Andersson said this demonstrated just how convincing and persistent scammers could be.

In another case, a mother reported to South Australia Police that she booked a family holiday for four through an online advertisement that appeared reputable, even checking the business had an ABN.

However, after paying thousands of dollars for flights and accommodation, she arrived at her destination only to discover the hotel did not exist.

Despite Australians rating their tech knowledge highly, the AIC Cybercrime in Australia 2024 Report revealed many are yet to use basic protections such as strong passphrases, multi-factor authentication and regular software updates, a critical gap ClickFit aims to close.

AC Andersson said criminals often exploited unsafe online habits to commit cybercrime, but simple changes could help Australians break the cycle.

"Changing our online habits is just as important as locking your car door after getting out," Acting Commander Andersson said.

"ClickFit isn't about making people feel fearful or anxious about being online, it's about empowering them to take small, simple steps to dramatically reduce their risk of being impacted by cybercrime."

ClickFit will run across 12 months and focus on four key types of cybercrime: business email compromise, romance scams, investments scams and impersonation scams.

It is built around two heroes, 'NetCop Gary' and 'Agent Index', whose mission is to help Australians become ClickFit.

Running until December 2026, ClickFit will highlight key threats including romance scams, investment scams, impersonation scams and business email compromise scams.

The ClickFit campaign offers six simple steps everyone can introduce to their digital routines to help protect from cybercrime and keep them safe online.

- Create strong passphrases - Long, unique passphrases for every account.
- Enable Multi-Factor Authentication - Adds an extra lock even if your password is stolen.
- Install software updates - Keeps your devices and apps secure.
- Be alert to scams - Stay up to date with emerging threats.
- Stop and think before you click - Don't rush as cybercriminals rely on urgency and distraction.
- Verify the source - Check directly with the legitimate organisation/trusted source before clicking a link, calling a number, or paying an account

If you are a victim of cybercrime, report it to police using ReportCyber.

Being a victim of cybercrime can have devastating impacts. If you, or someone you know needs help, we encourage you to contact Lifeline on 13 11 14 or Beyondblue on 1300 224 636, who provide 24/7 support services.

Couldn't count on this cash

By Phil Williams

A 55 year old man using fake ID has been arrested in the Northern Territory and extradited to Victoria from Alice Springs in relation to an interstate arrest warrant.

On Wednesday, October 29, the NT Police Force's Financial Crimes Section Detectives executed a search warrant on two male tourists at a holiday park in Howard Springs.

Detectives were investigating information from Batchelor Police that two male tourists travelling in a camper van had allegedly attempted to mix counterfeit currency with legitimate currency during gambling activities.

Further reports identified the same two males attempting similar activities in Howard Springs, Berry Springs and Humpty Doo.

As a result of these investigations, a 55 year old man was issued a Notice to Appear for possessing prescription medication without a script.

During a search conducted by police, no counterfeit currency was located.

Subsequent police investigations identified the 55 year old had an outstanding warrant for his arrest in Victoria and was allegedly utilising fake identification.

Between Wednesday 29 and Friday 31 October, extensive joint agency efforts were made to locate the male.

The Fugitive Task Force took carriage of the investigation, and he was subsequently arrested on Tuesday, November 4 by Avon Downs police members after being identified travelling with another male towards Queensland.

Two mobile phones and cash were also seized.

He was extradited from Alice Springs on Thursday, November 6 by Detectives from the Victorian Police Clandestine Laboratory Squad in relation to commercial drug manufacturing charges in Victoria.

Investigations are ongoing.

Cake Tin Carbonara

Prep time: 10 mins

Cook time: 1hr 10mins

Serves: 6

Difficulty: Easy

Ingredients:

- Melted butter, for brushing
- 1 cup grated parmesan, extra for greasing
- 300g spaghetti (no. 5)
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 200g streaky bacon, chopped
- 3 cloves garlic, crushed
- 4 eggs
- 300ml thickened cream
- Chopped Italian parsley, to for garnish

Method:

1. Brush a 21cm springform pan with butter. Sprinkle extra parmesan over base and sides until coated. Place pan on an oven tray. Preheat oven to 180C fan forced.
2. Cook pasta in a pot of boiling salted water until tender, drain.
3. Meanwhile, heat oil in a large frying pan over a medium heat. Add bacon and cook for 5 minutes or until golden. Add garlic and stir for 2 minutes. Remove from heat.
4. Whisk eggs and cream in a large bowl. Season with salt and pepper. Add pasta, parmesan and bacon mixture. Stir until combined. Pour into prepared pan.
5. Bake covered with foil for 20 minutes. Uncover and bake for a further 35-40 minutes or until golden and set firmly.
6. Remove from oven and stand in pan for 15 minutes. Carefully remove pan. Use a metal spatula to loosen base then transfer to a serving plate. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with parsley. Cut into wedges and serve.

Tips:

- Serve with salad leaves and balsamic dressing.
- Store remaining carbonara in containers in the fridge up to 3 days. Heat covered in the microwave.

Decadent chocolate custards

Prep time: 15 minutes + chilling

Serves: 4

Ingredients

- 1 quantity basic custard
- 50g 70% cocoa dark chocolate, chopped
- 1 tablespoon brandy
- Chocolate curls, to garnish
- Almond wafer biscuits or biscotti, to serve

Method:

1. Remove custard from heat. Divide custard evenly between 2 heatproof bowls. Add chopped chocolate to one bowl and stir until well combined and smooth. Add brandy to second bowl and stir until well combined. Cover surface of both bowls with plastic wrap (to prevent a skin from forming). Set aside to cool, then refrigerate until chilled.
2. Divide chocolate custard evenly between 4 serving glasses, then top with a layer of the brandy custard. Garnish with chocolate curls and serve with biscotti.

It's all black and white

By Phil Williams

IT wasn't Flemington, but Pioneer Park came alive as the traditional black and whites were on show at Derby Day.

A full race card and a sold out Young Guns enclosure and Fashions on the Field was the recipe for a big crowd at one of Australia's most picturesque race tracks as the Spring Racing Carnival got in to full swing.

There was one thing left to do - just have a good time.

Alice Springs punters received the memo.

Leadfoot Jamie wins in WA

By Phil Williams

JUNIOR Alice Springs dirt karter, Jamie Lightfoot won the 125 Heavy class at the WA Dirt Kart Championships in Busselton, south of Perth last Sunday, November 9.

The 14 year old racer put the had a dream run all weekend.

Putting the pedal to the metal, the worst result of his four heats was a third place after starting 12th.

Starting his final heat, again in the middle of the field, this time from 10th, he went on to win setting up a front row position for the feature race.

He was tied on equal points with another competitor for the final, but by virtue of better finishing results found himself starting from pole and was never headed, winning by over one second.

His mother, Narelle who remained home in Alice told the Centralian Today that she was in tears when she learnt of his win.

“I cried when I saw the result. I hate not being there, she said.

“I’m so proud. He went over to win, and he did. The number of phone calls and messages I’ve had this afternoon is amazing”.

Westies crush Feds

By Phil Williams

FEDERAL had a day to forget, going down by 137 runs in their B Grade cricket clash against West at Head Street Oval on November 1.

Westies won the toss and opted to bat and it looked set to be a tough day for the red and blacks early.

Their top order was skittled in the space of 10 deliveries for a contribution of just 12 runs between them.

Westies were in trouble with three wickets down inside of four overs.

Their innings continued to unravel when Ben Cortissos was forced to retire hurt after being taken out by a sandshoe crusher resulting in a trip to hospital for precautionary checks.

Muhammad Usman and Tahir Javid set about rescuing the innings by plundering the bowling attack.

Both batters sent the ball to the pickets with ease as Feds bowling attack fell apart.

Usman knocked up 66 runs from 86 deliveries before falling to the bowling of Shane Hayes, caught by Harsimran Singh.

Javid also eventually had his woodwork knocked over by Dwayne Groves, but not before he'd belted 79 from 83 deliveries.

Feds were given some cheap wickets late in game as Westies chased quick runs.

Bradley Coleiro had a big swing at a Harsimran Singh delivery that was on target only to hear the death rattle as his castle was spectacularly demolished.

Some undisciplined bowling from Feds with 57 extras, the third highest score, boosted Westies total of 8/253 from their full 40 overs.

Daryl Groves was best of the Feds bowling attack taking 2/31 from eight overs.

Feds innings failed to reach any great heights.

The only bright light was Groves with 47 from 37 deliveries.

Already off to a slow start, two quick wickets in the sixth over which saw the demise of Ash Jenkins and Shane Hayes was a major setback.

When Usman was run out in the ninth over, the rot had set in.

Unable to put together any kind of partnership with the regular loss of wickets, the Feds innings floundered.

Aside from Groves, Hayes was the only other batter to reach double figures for the red and whites.

Last rites were administered and the innings closed as Imran Qamar who bowled only 1.5 overs emerged as best of the West bowlers conceding just six runs.

He cleaned up the tail taking the final three wickets in the 21st over.

It was also a huge win to Rovers against Tigers in the second B Grade game.

Batting first, Rovers were dismissed for 240 with 11 balls to spare while Tigers struggled and were all out for 157 from 30.5 overs.

The two A Grade games were also demolitions with Feds 9/199 from 45 overs accounting for West 10/67 (26.5) and

Rovers 8/227 (45) beat the Tigers who were all out for 85 (21.2)

The C Grade games were also one sided affairs with Federal White, 5/232 (35) defeating West 10/74 while Feds Red

10/198 (34.5) claimed the win over Tigers who were all out for 74.

The women's T20 games at Flynn Drive on October 30 both delivered close results.

In the first match, Westies 3/114 (14) fell to Federal White 5/117 (14) and Rovers 2/98 (14) were defeated Feds Red 0/102

Close contests on green

By Phil Williams

AFTER the cooler conditions of the previous week, it was a case reality bites for round four of the John Healy Pennant, when bowlers were faced with a hot morning on the green on November 1.

With 14 players on the turf, there was two games consisting of eight ends of pairs and a single match of triples, with most contests ending with close results.

At the conclusion of play, Linda Hughes, playing her first round for the tournament won the day with a score of +9 Points, 14 shots and Wendy Cochrane (+7, +3) taking second.

Such was the closeness of the competition, Yvonne Driscoll and Sharon Innes tied for third and were forced into a play-off, which was another tight affair, won by Innes.

The new format, introduced at the start of the competition is still proving popular but with competition so tight there is little room for error and the opportunities to make amends for less than ideal results diminish as the series approaches its conclusion.

With two rounds remaining, the leader board saw more shuffling than Cliff Young in a Sydney-Melbourne ultra marathon.

Jason Hemmings still holds sway, and has a slight buffer, at the top of the leader board with an aggregate score of +23 points, +30 shots.

Little separates David Gould, (+18pts, +21sts) who for the second week in succession moved up a slot to claim second. Driscoll also jumped up a spot to sit in third on +18, +15.

After finishing third for the round, the biggest mover up the rankings was Sharon Inne

The result catapulted her up the ladder from seventh and she now holds fourth position with a score of +17,+10. Paul Harding (+16, -5) completes the top five to maintain his slot.

Phil Ryan who was previously second, plummeted six places down to eighth due to not playing.

Foursome's heading south

By Phil Williams

FOUR Alice Springs lawn bowlers are heading to Tasmania to play in the national championships in Tasmania.

The quartet of Pat Coburn, Katherine

O'Donoghue, Linda Hughes and Wendy Cochrane will join the rest of the NT team in Devonport as they take on the nations best lawn bowlers.

With over 30 national titles set to be awarded, it is the first time the championships have been held in the port city on the island state.

The tournament which runs until October 28 includes six events being the Australian Champion of Champions, Under18 Championships, Para Nationals, Senior Sides Championships, Australian Sides Championships and the Australian Championships.

The Territory team of 24 will play against seven other sides from all the states and the ACT in an attempt to bring home the national title.

PROPERTY SALES

★★★★★ Excellent communication and outcome!

Drew and Toni were excellent sales agents for my property. They facilitated photos for my property, despite tenants occupying my home, ensured home opens were consistent and kept me in the loop regarding the progress and sale of my property. Thank you for all your hard work Drew and Toni. You were both great to work with - realistic and trustworthy. Highly recommended.
