This area is a haven for fishing enthusiasts, bird watchers, and for those seeking a slow connection with the land.

There is, however, more to Sunraysia than just the great outdoors.

WELCOME TO OUR BEAUTIFUL PART OF THE WORLD

Our region is your year-round destination for an amazingly diverse range of experiences and events, catering for all ages and interests.

If you're visiting during the summer months, there is a packed program of events and experiences, including bringing in the New Year in a family-friendly environment at our free New Year's Eve community event at Nowingi Place.

March meanwhile signals the return of the annual Cullulleraine Music Festival followed by our huge Easter Powersports long weekend featuring a veritable feast of events from motorsport through to tennis and the massive Good Friday Show and Shine in the Langtree Mall.

Our year-round sunny climate makes our region a popular visitor destination during the winter months, featuring the Mildura Riverfront Marathon Festival in June ahead of the nationally-recognised Hattah Desert Race and Balloons Over Mildura in July.

For those with a sweet tooth, the annual Great Australian Vanilla Slice Triumph takes place in August each year.

Ouyen takes centre stage in September each year with the unique Mallee Root Festival, followed in October by plethora of events across the region, including the Patchewollock Music Festival, Goanna Run, Mildura Show and Mildura Fringe Festival.

Regardless of what time of the year you visit, you'll be able to experience our region's latest immersive experiences - internationally-renowned artist Bruce Munro's Trail of Lights on Lock Island in Mildura, and FOSO in the Wentworth - both experiences available year-round, including combination tickets.

And if you love the arts, there's plenty to immerse yourself in by visiting our arts precinct, featuring the Mildura Arts Centre galleries, Rio Vista House and free music during summer months at the regular Twilight events.

Be sure to drop in to our two Visitor Information Centres - in Deakin Avenue and at Powerhouse Place on the riverfront, where you can chat to our friendly staff for inspiration, book a tour or browse the gift shop which is full of products from over 70 local suppliers.

For those who love the outdoors, be sure to visit any one of the numerous National Parks in our region, or take in paddleboat or houseboat cruise on the Murray River.

These are just some of the experiences you can enjoy. For more visit mildura.com.

Whether this is your first time in our region or you're a regular visitor, I hope you enjoy your stay and everything our beautiful area has to offer.

EXPERIENCE MORE IN WENTWORTH SHIRE

At the meeting point of the Murray and Darling rivers, Wentworth Shire offers something different in every season. Spend time on the rivers, watch an outback sunset, explore local heritage and produce, or experience art after dark. However you travel, there is always another reason to stay longer and discover more.

Running until January 2027, the Explore Local, Experience More campaign helps residents and visitors discover towns, attractions and businesses across Wentworth Shire. Follow the campaign online for local stories, trip ideas and practical inspiration for your next day trip or short break.

Make Fibre Optic Symphonic Orchestra (FOSO) a highlight of your visit at any time of year. Bruce Munro's year-round immersive light and sound installation, located near the Perry Sandhills and Thegoa Lagoon, features 80 illuminated Hills Hoists that respond in colour to an original score by Emmy Award-winning composer Nainita Desai.

Pair FOSO with Trail of Lights at Lock Island in Mildura for a two-night light-art experience. FOSO combines light and music, while Trail of Lights offers a quieter walk through 12,500 firefly lights and Gone Fishing sculptures beside the Murray River. Together, the installations connect two landscapes and provide another reason to spend several days exploring Wentworth and Sunraysia.

Allow time beyond the light installations to explore Wentworth's history. River steamers began arriving in 1853, helping the settlement grow into an administrative and commercial centre for the outback. For many years, Sydney was the only New South Wales port handling more cargo than Wentworth. The Old Wentworth Gaol, built in 1879, is a well-preserved reminder of the town's development during this period. Continue to the Perry Sandhills, the Murray-Darling junction, the Australian Inland Botanic Gardens and the riverfront towns, or extend your journey towards Mungo National Park.

Make the Wentworth Visitor Centre at 61 Darling Street your starting point. Pick up a Wentworth Drive Trail Map, ask the team about local attractions and history, browse the shop and interpretive displays, and use the accessible facilities. The Centre is also an official booking agent for Mungo National Park experiences.

Plan your Wentworth Shire experience today. Choose a summer river escape, an autumn road trip, a winter heritage break or a spring garden visit, then follow Experience Wentworth and the Explore Local, Experience More campaign for current ideas and updates. Stay another day, explore another town and experience more of the region.

Mildura Weir and Lock 11

HUGH KING DRIVE

With the irrigation colony of Mildura booming in the first part of the last century, demand for water had never been greater.

In order to meet this demand and create a stable pool level, work on the Mildura Weir began in earnest in 1923 and was completed four years later.

The installation of the weir meant that a lock was needed so that vessels could continue to navigate the river.

While the weir is in place, the lock is required to operate daily, allowing houseboats and paddle steamers to pass through. Lock 11 has a lush lawn and picnic area for those lazy day picnics.

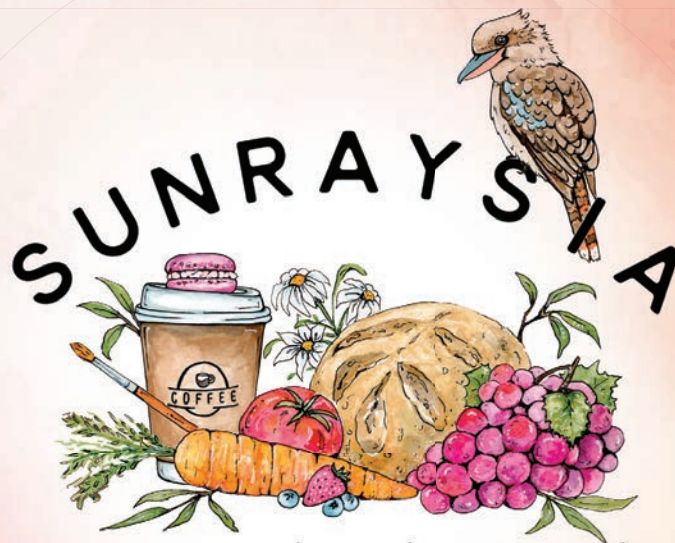

While there, wander across the top of the lock gates to explore Lock Island.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

RAAF Memorial and Museum is home to a restored CA-27 Avon Sabre A94-906.

Rio Vista Historic House is part of the Mildura Arts Centre.

RAAF Memorial and Museum

MILDURA AIRPORT

Mildura flew into the World War II history books in 1942.

From 1942 until 1946, the Mildura Airfield transformed into the home of the No 2 Operational Training Unit (2OTU). The role of the 2OTU was to provide operational fighter conversion and training to pilots before they were posted to their operational squadrons. 1246 pilots flew Wirraway, Boomerang, Spitfire, Kittyhawks and Mustang aircraft at the base.

Many famous airmen trained or instructed at the Mildura base, including former Prime Minister John Gorton.

The RAAF Memorial and Museum was established at the Mildura Airport to preserve this important part of the district's history.

The Museum contains a large number of RAAF memorabilia and displays relating to the activities of 2OTU at Mildura and wartime operations elsewhere.

Visitors are welcome to browse the displays or be guided by friendly volunteers. For more information visit mildurarsl.com.au

Rio Vista Historic House

199 CURETON AVENUE, MILDURA

Completed in 1891, WB Chaffey's grand house, Rio Vista symbolises the dreams of the Chaffey Brothers who founded the Mildura Irrigation Settlement.

Built in Queen Anne style with Californian references, the house commands views of the river and surrounding parklands. Step back in time and explore a vision of what the region would have looked like in its founding days.

This treasured home boasts original finishes, furnishings and furniture, beautiful stained glass windows, which were handmade and imported from England - an exquisite tessellated entrance hall floor made of Italian tiles, richly coloured wallpaper and extensive time finishes and panelling throughout.

Rio Vista Historic House is open daily from 10am until 4pm, but is closed Christmas Day and Good Friday with reduced hours on Anzac Day. For more information visit milduraartscentre.com.au

The Langtree Hall

79 WALNUT AVENUE, MILDURA

Built in 1889, Mildura's Langtree Hall has been reinvented many times and is packed full of history.

As Mildura's first public hall, it has been used for a variety of different activities, including a roller skating rink and a court of petty sessions, until the Mildura Court House was built in 1892.

It has also been a gymnasium, billiard saloon and storage room.

At one time, the hall was used as a performance venue, undergoing a refurbishment before opening as the Lyric Theatre in about 1913.

As the name suggests, the hall began its life in Langtree Avenue, and has survived two moves.

In 1991, it was carefully dismantled and rebuilt at its current location, meaning an important piece of Mildura's early history was saved and returned to its former glory.

Discover the past at The Langtree Hall, where there's something for all ages.

Open Wednesday, Friday and Saturday from 11am until 4pm (or by appointment).

Mildura Homestead Cemetery

CURETON AVENUE, MILDURA

Part of the Chaffey Trail, The Mildura Homestead Cemetery is the resting place of some early pioneers and members of the Chaffey family.

Take a moment and reflect on the pioneering spirit of those who have gone before us.

Old Mildura Homestead

278A CURETON AVENUE, MILDURA

Mildura was here long before the irrigation era - with Aboriginal populations, European explorers, overlanders and pastoralists moving through the landscape and leaving their own indelible mark.

The Old Mildura Homestead site has been recreated to remind us of another time in the area's history, when pastoralists arrived in the mid 1850s to try their luck in the harsh desert conditions.

Visitors to the Old Mildura Homestead site can see a replica of Mildura's first cottage built in 1850.

There is also a replica of the extension added by the Chaffey family and a lovely rose garden and olive grove.

While there, explore the woolshed and stables, which overlook the Murray River.

The woolshed is a popular event venue, with wedding parties often spotted in the grounds of the homestead.

Pack a picnic lunch and enjoy the relaxing surroundings, right on the banks of the mighty Murray River.

The Old Mildura Homestead gives an insight into what life was like in the very first decades of settlement in the region.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Red Cliffs and District Historical Society

JAMIESON AVENUE, RED CLIFFS

To fully appreciate the blood, sweat and tears that went into creating Sunraysia's fruit blocks, it helps to understand the history of the district's soldier settlement.

When the first Aussie troops began coming home from Europe and the Middle East after World War I, soldier settlements were planned for Victoria's north west. Red Cliffs would be the largest.

The Red Cliffs and District Society is dedicated to preserving this history since its foundation in 1984 - when some of the original soldiers were still alive.

Today, the society's museum houses memorabilia, photographs and written records vital to piecing together the town's history.

For more information find them on Facebook or visit: redcliffshistory.wordpress.com

Big Lizzie

BARCLAY SQUARE, RED CLIFFS

It's hard to walk through Red Cliff's Barclay Square without stopping to inspect the town's imposing and iconic tractor, fondly known as Big Lizzie.

Constructed in Richmond, Melbourne by inventor and blacksmith Frank Bottrill in 1915, Lizzie was initially commissioned to replace the camel trains that carried wool and other heavy loads in sandy terrain.

Originally bound for Broken Hill, she struggled to cross the Murray River at Echuca due to floods and a lack of adequate river crossings that could hold her colossal weight.

Instead, with her 45-tonne payload, she was put to work clearing Mallee scrub in Red Cliffs for the 700 Soldier Settlement blocks for veterans of World War I.

By 1920, Big Lizzie had commenced clearing 6000 hectares of Mallee scrub, destined to become the Red Cliffs irrigation settlement.

After being moved to western Victoria in 1924 to clear more land, she was lost to the community for some time when in 1971, a committee was formed to negotiate the sale and return of Big Lizzie to Red Cliffs.

The mission was successful and Big Lizzie now takes pride of place in Barclay Square, where she draws a lot of well deserved attention.

Eager to learn more about Robinvale's past? A visit to Robinswood Homestead promises insight into Robinvale's rich heritage.

Robinvale, with its origins dating back to the 1920's honours the memory of George Robin Cuttle, the second son of H.E. and M.A. Cuttle.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The Wentworth Wharf is the town's main access point to the Darling River.

EXPLORE WENTWORTH

Wentworth Wharf

Marvel at the Wentworth Wharf, a replica of the original structure that was built more than 130 years ago.

It is hard to imagine, but this peaceful, idyllic spot on the Darling River was once one of Australia's busiest river ports.

In its heyday, wool and other farmed goods would arrive at the wharf from outlying stations to be loaded onto steamers for transportation to market along the Murray River Highway.

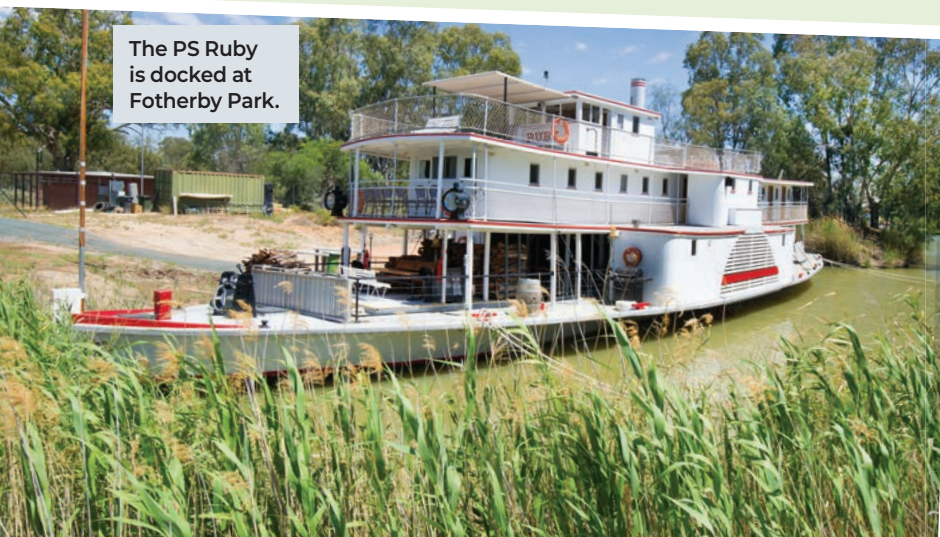

An early pioneer, Captain John Egge has been immortalised with a bronze statue seated on the wharf and looking out towards the Darling and River Junction.

With the original wharf falling into disrepair and being demolished in 1983, the wharf that stands today in its place is an exact replica.

PS Ruby and Fotherby Park

As you head into the township of Wentworth, take the time to stop by Fotherby Park and witness a living treasure - the PS Ruby.

Built in South Australia in 1907, the paddle steamer was used to transport passengers and cargo along the Murray River between Echuca, Mildura, Wentworth and Goolwa.

Slowly, the Ruby fell into disrepair, eventually becoming a houseboat when river travel declined.

In 1968 the Rotary Club of Wentworth purchased the boat and placed her into dry dock at Fotherby Park.

In 1995, the club realised the need for major restoration and work began to painstakingly restore her.

While in the park, take a moment to view the monument honouring The Possum, a local character who lived off the land in and around Wentworth during the Great Depression.

For more information about PS Ruby, visit the Wentworth Visitor Information Centre or experiencewentworth.com.au.

Wentworth Military Collection

SANDWYCH STREET, WENTWORTH

The Wentworth Military Collection is home to the world-class Marching Matilda Experience.

With 125 years of Australian Military service and items from around the world, on show, they have displays of relics, artefacts and military souvenirs, with an emphasis on Australian service.

Sharing the stories of our past for generations to come, the museum is currently moving to another relocation.

Follow them on Facebook to find out more.

Wentworth Pioneer Museum

117 BEVERLEY STREET, WENTWORTH

Take a step back in time and explore the landscape of the local region as it would have been 1.8 million years ago, at the Rotary Club of Wentworth's Pioneer Museum.

The museum gives visitors a chance to see indigenous artefacts and a megafauna display based on fossil remains discovered around Wentworth and in Mungo National Park.

There's even a 5m tall model of a Muttaborrasaurus - a herbivore that lived around 100 million years ago during the Cretaceous period.

The Rotary Club of Wentworth has collected more than 3000 artefacts and relics from tools, instruments and documents to everyday items.

The museum celebrated the humble Fergie tractor which was used by locals to save the town during the 1956 floods, plus you can see a 1917 Bailor Motor Cultivator tractor from the United States.

Situated opposite the Old Wentworth Gaol, the museum is open daily from 10am until 4pm.

Old Wentworth Gaol

BEVERLEY STREET, WENTWORTH

Life behind bars wasn't meant to be easy, but for prisoners thrown into the Old Wentworth Gaol, conditions were a step up from the usual lock-ups used during the era.

Starting in 1879, the jail was built over three years as a single storey brick building, constructed from locally-made clay bricks and bluestone trim from Malmsbury near Melbourne.

Today, you can walk through the eerie structure, either at your own pace or on a self guided tour.

History and ghost tours have also been held at the site.

Before you leave, don't forget to step inside the gaoler's residence where you can purchase souvenirs, old wares and antiques.

Open daily from 10am until 4pm the Wentworth Gaol stands as a tangible reminder of harsher days.

WENTWORTH

Built in 1929, the historic Lock 10 was established to maintain a high level of water for irrigation in times of low water and to regulate water flow.

Pictures: David Sickerdick

Located a short 30-minute drive from Mildura, the Cullulleraine Music Festival is a highlight on the regional calendar, combining high-energy entertainment with the peaceful, red-earth charm of Lake Cullulleraine. Fresh off winning the 2025 Mildura Rural City Council Community Event of the Year award, this multi-day festival offers something for every traveller seeking a vibrant getaway under Sunraysia's expansive skies.

Festivities kick off on Thursday night with a cozy pre-event pub gathering at the iconic Werrimull Hotel, known far and wide as Victoria's "Most Outback Pub." Catch the local shuttle bus from your campsite to enjoy an evening of cold drinks, good food, live music and a warm welcome before the main event begins.

From Friday evening through to Sunday afternoon, the banks of the lake come alive with an eclectic mix of creative activities, community workshops, and endless entertainment. A traditional bushdance sets the stage for a fun-filled weekend, inviting visitors of all skill levels to step onto the grass and join the dance floor. The festival also features the Mallee Arts CoLab tent and stage, offering opportunities for young people to build hands-on stage management skills while providing performers of all ages a welcoming platform to take the stage.

What sets this festival's musical experience apart is its carefully curated lineup that you simply won't see at any other event in Sunraysia. Mainstream music lovers and casual listeners can look forward to high-energy blues, roots, rock, and soul, alongside vibrant New Orleans jazz, funk, and infectious world rhythms. Mixed with crowd-pleasing country, folk, and energetic brass, this diverse, handpicked mix of local, national and international artists brings an upbeat, universally appealing festival energy right to the edge of the lake.

Mornings at the festival offer a wonderfully relaxed pace. Unwind with lakeside yoga, take part in peaceful bird-watching walks, or join in on a morning singing session as the sun rises over the water. For families, the weekend is packed with hands-on entertainment. Children can explore circus skills workshops, explore Australian wildlife at the EnviroEDU tent, jump into loose-parts playground builds, or express their creativity with art projects and colorful parades. As evening falls, the atmosphere ramps up with late-night stargazing sessions using high-powered telescopes, keeping the magic alive well after dark.

Food and drink enthusiasts won't be disappointed. Resident vendors serve up a diverse selection of local produce, featuring everything from fresh Nepalese dumplings to hot gourmet wraps, crispy seafood, and classic oven-baked treats. To quench your thirst, sample region-famous botanical spirits, craft beers, and rich regional wines at the iconic Fosseys Gin Distillery tent.

EXPLORE THE GREAT OUTDOORS

If you love exploring, you've come to the right place.

The Sunraysia region has something for everyone, so plan now to get out and experience natural beauty, mighty rivers, vast mallee scrub and vibrant red earth.

Thanks to our great climate it's easy to get out and enjoy the great outdoors with a variety of attractions to visit from wildlife reserves to wetlands, national parks and walking and cycling tracks.

HATTAH KULKYNE NATIONAL PARK

Via Hattah

Whether it is a day trip or a camping adventure, Hattah-Kulkyne National Park is a natural environment where you can breathe in fresh air and unplug from life.

If you like walking, trekking, boating, canoeing, cycling, birdwatching, fishing and driving along the many tracks, then you will love Hattah-Kulkyne.

A paradise for nature lovers there are picnic areas for day trippers and picturesque camping sites at Lake Hattah and Lake Mournpall.

MURRAY - SUNSET NATIONAL PARK

Murray - Sunset National Park is in one of few remaining semi-arid regions in the world with a vast but beautiful environment.

With wide open landscapes you will experience starry nights and spectacular sunsets.

This is an amazing park for bushwalking, camping and four wheel exploring.

Stop by the Pink Lakes which change in colour from a deep glowing pink to sparkling iridescent white with the salt crystals catching the light. A visit to these majestic lakes is an experience in itself so don't forget your camera.

MUNGO NATIONAL PARK

Mungo National Park is compelling and awe inspiring, where you will marvel at the scenery, appreciate the Aboriginal connection to the land, dating back more than 40,000 years, and acknowledge the pastoral endeavours of those who came much later.

World Heritage - listed as part of the Willandra Lakes Area, the park is home to the famous Mungo Lady and Mungo Man, and is a breathtaking place to enjoy a walk or a picnic.

You can also choose to drive the 70km Mungo Track by car, which takes you from the Visitor Information Centre to the aptly named Walls of China, around a stunning lookout over the park, and beyond.

Along the way, you'll discover an ever-changing landscape, finally arriving at sand dunes rising up out of the flat plains - reminiscent of scenes from science-fiction films.

LAKE CULLULLERAIN

Head to Lake Cullulleraine, a man-made freshwater lake located a short 45 minutes from Mildura.

There you will find a popular stop for travellers, offering numerous recreational activities due to its constant water supply. You can indulge in swimming, canoeing, kayaking, sailing, water skiing and jet skiing.

The lake is surrounded by walking trails and is ideal for bird watching and spotting native wildlife in the surrounding natural landscape.

With two lakeside caravan parks you can either stop for a few days or make it a day trip.

PERRY SANDHILLS, Wentworth

For a complete change of scenery, head to the hills.

The Perry Sandhills, that is.

Geologists claim the sandhills originated after the ice age 40,000 years ago and were formed by wind erosion over thousands of years.

The dunes are a unique formation of 333ha of continuously shifting sand dunes.

Aboriginal people used the area to camp and hunt, and evidence of this is still being uncovered as the sands continue to shift.

Skeletons of mega-fauna have been found there during World War II, the sandhills were used as a bombing practice range.

Walk amongst the canopy of a stunning river red gum which has been swallowed up by the shifting sand.

Check road conditions at the Wentworth Visitor Information Centre first, and don't forget to take plenty of drinking water, hats and sunscreen.

MERBIN WALK

Forbes Drive Merbein

Merbein Rotary Lookout provides the best views across Mildura and beyond.

It also happens to be the highest point in the district, thanks to the white cliffs towering over the Murray River.

If you're up for an easy walk, wander through the Pioneer Plantation, established as a tribute to those early settlers who turned Merbein into the irrigated settlement it is today.

Head down the 133 steps to the river's edge and Chaffey Landing and then follow the trail around until arrive at the Merbein Common with its many walking, cycling and four wheel driving tracks.

MURRAY CLIFFS LOOKOUT

Pumps Road, Red Cliffs

Curious about Red Cliffs' namesake?

Take a drive out to the Murray Cliffs Lookout, and Scenic Reserve and you'll soon understand.

Dubbed the most photographed view on the Murray River, the lookout is a short drive from the town's centre.

See for yourself the magical rich red colour of the high river cliffs and their striking reflection on the surface of the Murray River below.

While there, enjoy the beauty of mother nature as you explore the 21-hectare scenic reserve.

To make it easier to move about, boardwalks and viewing areas have been erected.

You'll witness ancient Aboriginal middens, spectacular bird populations and the remains of the old Carwarp boiler.

THEGOA LAGOON

Wentworth

Thegoa Lagoon may appear unassuming, but scratch the surface and you'll find a place steeped in environmental, cultural, social and economic importance to the Wentworth the Lower Murray Darling regions.

At its essence, the lagoon is a non-permanent freshwater wetland supporting a healthy and diverse community of native flora and fauna.

Thegoa Lagoon with its proximity to the river junction was a natural 'meeting place' where Aboriginal people gathered for Corroborees.

Rich in history where you can learn of the archeological sites including middens, hearths and scar trees.

Enjoy the natural beauty of the bush as you wander around.

Thegoa Lagoon is a great place for bird watching, bush walking or for enjoying a family picnic.

MURRAY DARLING JUNCTION

Wentworth

Visit the junction of Australia's two most significant rivers, the Murray and the Darling.

With a backdrop of impressive river red gums and natural vegetation, the Murray-Darling Junction offers a great spot to picnic and explore.

It was at this spot, in 1830, that Captain Charles Sturt gave the Murray River its name.

Long before this, the area was an important meeting place for local Aboriginal populations who used it for trading, meetings and corroborees.

Close to the junction is Lock 10 and the Wentworth Weir,

Built in 1929, the weir and Lock 10 play an important role in the Murray - Darling water system in both maintaining a high level of water for irrigation in times of little to regular water flows.

Climb the viewing platform and take in the amazing view overlooking the junction.

For more walking tracks and natural wonderlands visit mildura.com

LOCK ISLAND AND LOCK 11

In the 1920s, locks were constructed along the Murray River to keep water levels steady for irrigation purposes and to help Paddle Steamers navigate safely.

Prior to this, the river's water levels fluctuated dramatically, with the river looking very different from what it does now.

River locks are an ingenious feat of engineering that help boats move easily and safely on the river.

They act like "water elevators" for boats, raising or lowering them between different water levels.

By holding a boat between two gates and controlling the water, locks allow smooth boat movement.

See the confluence of two great rivers, the Darling and the Murray.
Picture: Wentworth Shire Council.

With construction commencing in 1923 the Lock was completed in 1927.

Lock 11 is unique due to the creation of Lock Island during its construction, which separates the lock from the weir.

Visiting Lock 11 is a great way to watch boats use this amazing structure, and to see how it works.

For a unique perspective be sure to take a Paddle Steamer cruise and experience it up close for yourself.

Visitors to Mildura can also explore Lock Island, which is easily accessible via a footbridge at Lock 11.

This peaceful island has inviting walking tracks, grassy areas perfect for picnics, and beautiful views of the river and the weir.
